INTRODUCTION.

THE mass book, which is now printed for the first time, was named by the late Bishop A. P. Forbes,1 'in the absence of any more suitable appellation,' the ROSSLYN MISSAL. title can scarcely be regarded as happily chosen. It suggests a connexion, which did not exist, with the fifteenth century Collegiate Church of St. Matthew, widely known as 'Rosslyn Chapel,' or with its predecessor, the ruins of which remain hard by: and the only claim of our missal to bear it is the fact that it once rested in the library of the Sinclairs at Rosslyn Castle. It might perhaps have been considered, that it was for probably at least an equal period in the Balfour collection at Denmyln, and that since then it has been for a very much longer time in the Advocates' Library, Edinburgh. But though exception may be taken to the name, it has been so generally accepted by recent scholars that confusion would result from the adoption of a new one in its place, and accordingly it appears (under protest) on our title-page.

Still less apt was the name by which the book was known in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries to the few scholars who were aware of its existence, Missale or Liturgia Sancti Columbani Abbatis. This designation, I have little doubt, was due to Sir James Balfour, by whose direction it was inscribed on a fly-leaf of the manuscript about the year 1630. As to its meaning, it may perhaps suffice to say that, the names Columbanus and Columba being interchangeable,<sup>2</sup> the former was frequently used in Balfour's day for the Irish Apostle of the Picts.¹ His contemporary, fellow-countryman and perhaps friend, Thomas Dempster,² went so far as to transfer to St. Columbanus the founder of Bobbio what Notker had written of St. Columba the founder of Iona, and is duly castigated by Ussher therefor.³ With this dual personage, Columba or Columbanus of Iona and Bobbio, Balfour probably intended to connect our missal when he named it 'Liturgia Sti Columbani Abatis (sic).' Very possibly he had nothing to warrant him in doing so beyond the fact that it is written in an Irish hand.

Description.

The Rosslyn Missal (Advocates' Library, Edinburgh, MS. 18. 5. 19: formerly A. 6. 12) is a small quarto manuscript written on vellum in an Irish hand which may be assigned, with the hesitation usual in such cases, to the end of the thirteenth or to the fourteenth century. It consists of fourteen gatherings, unsigned: the succession of the sheets of each gathering being indicated by the letters a, b, c, etc., written primâ manu in the upper or lower corners of the rectos of the first few leaves (see Plate II). Most of these letters have, however, disappeared, having probably been cut away by the binder. The pages at present measure 18 centimetres by 13 centimetres, but they were originally considerably larger.

will be found on the facsimile plates. They are employed very capriciously. A sign resembling an inverted semi-colon (Plate I. l. 7 from end) is usually nearly equivalent to a comma. Another, having some likeness to our semi-colon (Plate II. 1. 6 from end), has the value of a full stop or colon. It is often placed after words which introduce a quotation in the oratio recta. The single point is found in place of either of the foregoing, but sometimes it is inserted where there is no break in the sense and where it therefore appears to be quite unmeaning. At other times it is used merely as a sign of abbreviation. A question is indicated by a mark (see Plate I. l. 11) placed over its first word, or at the end, or in both places. Another mark, not always readily distinguished from the last, is frequently found in the epistles (Plate I. ll. 1, 5; Plate II. 1. 7 from end) and now and then in the gospels. venturing upon a theory as to its meaning we may in future references to it call it an 'inflection mark.' Once or twice in the Canon, another punctuation mark is found, consisting of a point followed by a comma (.,). The hyphen is freely used (e.g. Plate II. II. 4, 5 from end). Such words as et, ut, and the prepositions are frequently written as if they were part of the following words (Plate I. l. 6, 'desabaa').

The arrangement of the gatherings may be indicated as follows, the letters denoting the gatherings, the superscribed figures the number of leaves in each.

- I. TEMPORALE (+ Missa de Inventione S. Crucis and Praefationes):  $a \ b \ c^{10} \ d^{12} \ e \ f \ g^{10} \ h^4$ .
- II. SANCTORALE:  $ijk^{12}$ .
- III. CANON: 15 (1 I without conjugate).
- IV. MISSAE VOTIVAE: m10 n8.

It will be observed that the book is divided into four distinct parts, much on the same principle as the Liber Eveshamensis.<sup>1</sup>

The number of lines of writing in each page is in the first part 22, with the exception of f. 31, which has but 21, and ff. 43–51, which have 23. In the second part gatherings i k have 24 (except f. 112, which has 23), gathering j 23. The third part has 20 throughout. The fourth part has 21 in f. 118, 20 in ff. 119–127, 22 in ff. 128–132r., 23 in ff. 132v.–135. The portion of the pages occupied by the writing measures about 14 or 14.5 cent.  $\times$  8.5 cent. in the first and second parts. In the third and fourth parts the measurement is somewhat greater—15.5 (except gathering m: 14.5)  $\times$  10.

There is evidently a lacuna at the beginning of the Temporale, probably of one gathering, and apparently also at the end of the volume. But the loss through mutilation seems to be greater than is evident at first sight. The manuscript appears at one time to have contained a pretty full Commune Sanctorum, witness to the existence of which still remains in a large number of places in the Sanctorale in which only the cues of the choral parts and lessons are given, and in two of which there are explicit directions that the full text was to be sought elsewhere, though it does not now appear in the manuscript. The Commune Sanctorum seems to have preceded the Sanctorale.

It must here be mentioned, as somewhat militating against the soundness of this conclusion, that our missal is a mere excerpt from a larger book. This is evident from the fact that the masses for the Vigils of St. Andrew and St. Matthew, and apparently also the services for the Vigil of Whitsunday and the Benedictio Cerei and Benedictio Fontis on Easter Even are implied by rubrics and titles in various places,<sup>5</sup> though these offices do not, and never did, form part of the missal.

It may perhaps be thought likely that among the parts of his exemplar omitted by our scribe was the Common of Saints. But on the other hand the number of implied references to the Common is so great, that it is scarcely credible that this could have been the case. And it may perhaps be added, that with so meagre a Proper a Common would have been almost a necessity, if the book were to be of practical service.

The present arrangement of the volume is probably in part1 due to the binder: and it is apparently different from that which the scribe intended. It seems to be the habit of the copyist to represent by cues only such portions of the masses as had been written in full in a previous part of the missal. Now in the Missae Votivae the complete text of the introits, grails, commons and lessons is always given. But in more than one instance we have in the Sanctorale, and once apparently in the Temporale, only the first words of forms of which the remainder is to be sought in what is now the fourth part of the missal.2 The present fourth part would therefore seem originally to have preceded the present first part. This inference is borne out by an inspection of the manuscript. As we pass from the Sanctorale to the Canon we are conscious of a considerable difference in the character of the script-not sufficient, indeed, to point to a change of hand, but enough to suggest want of continuity of work. There is no such contrast between the writing of the latter part of the Canon and the Votive Masses. And again, the last pages of the Masses for the Dead agree more closely in script with those of the earliest remaining pages of the Temporale than do the last of the Sanctorale and the first of the Canon (ff. 112, 113) with each other. For these reasons we conclude that the original order of the parts of the manuscript may have been: I. Canon (gathering 1). II. Votive Masses (m n). [III. Common of Saints]. IV.

Proper of Time (a b c d e f g h). V. Proper of Saints (i j k). This, it will be seen, agrees with the arrangement of the Corpus Christi College Oxford Missal, except as to the position of the Common of Saints.

This appears to be the proper place to mention that in the exemplar, or at least in an ancestor, of our manuscript the Canon appears to have been combined with the Mass of the Holy Trinity,<sup>1</sup> the proper Prefaces to have been given with the masses to which they severally belonged,<sup>2</sup> and the Votive Masses differently arranged.<sup>3</sup>

Place of Writing.

Evidence as to the provenance of the manuscript is disappointingly meagre. But such as it is it must now be laid before the reader. We are obliged to take as our starting-point a hypothesis, which cannot be regarded as certainly correct, but which reasons to be given hereafter may show to be at least fairly probable—that the Church for which the Rosslyn Missal was written claimed to be the burial place of St. Patrick.4 Unfortunately, however, the place of the Saint's burial has been for many centuries, and still is, a matter of controversy. Armagh, Downpatrick and Saul-not to speak of Glastonbury—have claimed the honour. Bishop Reeves<sup>5</sup> argued with much learning for Downpatrick, Dr. Olden,6 apparently with more reason, and in the light of evidence unknown to the former writer, for Armagh. Happily we need not enter the lists. Our task is not to decide where St. Patrick was buried, but to determine what Church, at the time at which our manuscript was written, was likely to have made the claim for itself; and if this prove to be the case with more than one, to notice the phenomena of the missal which may serve to indicate to which of the rivals it belonged. We may confine ourselves to Armagh, Downpatrick and its near neighbour Saul.

And first as to Armagh. It is certain that as late as the first half of the twelfth century a claim was made on its behalf. St. Bernard<sup>1</sup> tells us that Armagh was 'sedes illa in qua et uiuens praefuit et mortuus requiescit.' The testimony of Bernard of course reduces itself to that of his friend St. Malachy, who ruled the diocese of Armagh from 1134 till 1136. But after this date there seems to be no evidence that any of the ecclesiastical authorities of Armagh professed that St. Patrick was buried in their city. William of Newbridge indeed says fifty years later<sup>2</sup>: 'Ardmachia ubi esse dicitur prima sedes Hiberniae, propter honorem beati Patricii atque aliorum indigenarum sanctorum, quorum ibidem sacrae reliquiae requiescunt.' The sentence is not perhaps altogether free from ambiguity.3 But in any case William speaks as an outsider. On the other hand Jocelin, whose Life of St. Patrick was published about the year 1183,4 is most emphatic that Down was the resting place of the Saint,3 writing, as we may suspect, not without reference to assertions that had been made on behalf of the metropolitan see. Now Jocelin's Life, it should be carefully noted, was written by the command of Thomas Archbishop of Armagh (i.e. Thomas O'Conor,7 the sixth successor of Malachy O'Morgair) and Malachy<sup>8</sup> Bishop of Down.<sup>9</sup> And a century later (as the Irish

Annalists¹ significantly inform us under the year 1293), probably within a few years of the date of our missal, Nicholas Mac Maelisa, Archbishop of Armagh, 'the most godly and devout ecclesiastic of his time in Ireland' discovered, disinterred, and enshrined the remains of St. Patrick, along with those of St. Columba and St. Brigid, not at Armagh, but at Saul.² We might call a later witness,³ but it is needless. When such things as these happened we are surely warranted in the inference that if not by Thomas O'Conor, at least by Nicholas Mac Maelisa, the pretence that the Primates of Armagh were the guardians of the body of the Apostle of Ireland was given up.

But indeed that our missal did not belong to Armagh seems clear enough from internal evidence. The manuscript supplies two masses both of which are headed Pro episcopo.<sup>4</sup> It would be surprising, in a missal which is but an excerpt from a larger book, if these two masses were mere alternatives.<sup>5</sup> And in fact they are not. The second is really a mass for an archbishop. There is thus a mass pro archiepiscopo in addition to that pro episcopo. This suits the case of Downpatrick or Saul, both of them in the diocese of Down, which formed part of the Province of Armagh; but it is scarcely conceivable at Armagh, the archiepiscopal city.

Armagh being excluded, we have therefore to decide between Saul and Downpatrick.

External evidence does not help us much. But it is worth while to consider—for whatever it may count—the comparative unlikelihood that we have in our hands a service-book from the poor and struggling house at Saul rather than from its important

We stand perhaps on firmer ground when we turn once more to internal evidence. But in order to make its import clear, it is necessary to relate in some detail the history of Down Cathedral for some eight or ten years. In the third quarter of the twelfth century this Church was presided over by a chapter of secular canons, its dedication was to the Holy Trinity, and an image of the Trinity stood over its high altar.3 In 1177 John de Courcey invaded Ulster, and in the same year captured the city of Down, as it was then called. Henceforth it was his headquarters. Immediately afterwards he made extensive ecclesiastical changes in the district of which it was the centre,4 and a few years later he turned his attention to the Cathedral Church. The old tradition that this Church was the last resting place of St. Patrick (which had no doubt slumbered during the episcopate of Malachy O'Morgair, 1136-1148) was revived. The Cathedral received a fresh dedication to St. Patrick; Jocelin was employed to write a life of the saint, in which it was set forth that he was buried at Down; and the image of the Holy Trinity was displaced in favour of one of the new patron of the Church. After an interval of some three years (1183)1 the bishop, Malachy, saw a vision in which the grave, hitherto unknown, of St. Patrick, St. Brigid and St. Columba was pointed out to him. The three bodies were duly discovered lying side by side, and were translated with great pomp into a more suitable part of the edifice. From that time onwards the unvarying Anglo-Norman tradition, which has since become the popular belief, was that St. Patrick rested in Down Cathedral. And from the same period dates the modern name of the city-Downpatrick. But this was not all. In 1183 the secular canons were dismissed and a convent of Benedictine monks was brought from St. Werburgh's, Chester, to take their place. These were to form the chapter of the Cathedral, presided over by the Bishop as ex officio Abbat, and the Dean as ex officio Prior, the constitution being modelled on those of Winchester and Coventry.2

The main purpose of the revival of the cultus of St. Patrick at Down appears to have been to gain favour with the native Irish. De Courcey posed as 'Sancti Patricii specialissimus dilector et venerator.' But however successful this policy may have been as a whole, in one respect it failed. De Courcey was accused of sacrilege for having removed the image of the Trinity. Now an easy way to rebut this charge would have been to institute frequent devotions to the Holy Trinity. And the Rosslyn Missal exhibits phenomena which are not inconsistent with—which perhaps point towards—the inference that it belonged to a Church where the Missa de S. Trinitate, or at least the Trinity Preface, was in constant use.<sup>1</sup>

Again, with nothing to guide us but the internal evidence of our missal we might have hesitated to determine whether it was intended for monastic or secular use.2 But if it is a monastic book it can scarcely be supposed to have been written for such a monastery as that of Saul. The Abbat is not once mentioned in its pages. The Bishop everywhere takes the part in the services which the Abbat might have been expected to assume: in his absence his place is taken, in one case at least, by the Dean.3 There is no Missa pro abbate, though Missae pro episcopo and pro archiepiscopo are provided: and, so far as we can judge, neither was there a Missa pro abbate defuncto, though the necessary collects for a deceased bishop and a deceased priest are found. All this may easily be explained in the case of a Down missal, for at Down the Bishop was Abbat and the Dean Prior: but Saul had an Abbat distinct from the Bishop.4

As the result of this argument we may perhaps give a somewhat hesitating assent—the more hesitating on account of the doubt which envelopes the assumption on which the reasoning of this section is based—to the theory that our missal was written for the Cathedral Church of St. Patrick at Down: the theory receives support from further evidence which must be reserved for the next section.

Origin.

I propose in this section to determine, as far as this is possible, the ancestry of the Rosslyn Missal. I begin by quoting two documents, one of which has been very generally misunderstood, the other as generally overlooked. The first of these is a portion of the seventh canon of the Synod of Cashel (1172). It runs as follows<sup>1</sup>:—

'Septimo, quia cum bona confessione decedentibus, et missarum et vigiliarum exhibitione, et in more sepeliendi, obsequium debitum persolvatur. Itaque omnia divina, ad instar sacrosanctae ecclesiae, juxta quod Anglicana observat ecclesia, in omnibus partibus ecclesiae amodo tractentur.'

It will be observed that nothing is said or implied about the Sarum or any other special use of the Church of England.<sup>2</sup> The terms of the canon would be fully satisfied by the introduction into Ireland of English service-books of any use, or from any place: the one essential was that the existing Irish books should be superseded, and superseded, we may add, not by Roman or continental books, as they might have been earlier in the century by Gillebert of Limerick<sup>3</sup> or Malachy of Armagh, but by the books then in use in the English Church.

This enactment received but scanty attention throughout Ireland, especially in the north, but it was faithfully obeyed by De Courcey; both which facts are proved sufficiently for our purpose by a passage in Jocelin's Vita S. Patricii. Commenting on a vision of St. Patrick, in which, after a period of darkness, he saw Ireland overspread by a light which rose from the north, he says<sup>4</sup>:—

De Courcey, it is plain, introduced new service-books into Down. Whence were they derived? In the very year, it would seem, in which these words were penned the Benedictine colony from Chester took possession of the Cathedral. What more natural than to suppose that they brought with them their books? Two centuries previously Benedictine monks from Abingdon under their Abbat-Bishop Ethelwold, displaced the secular canons of Winchester: and their new Church received from them the Abingdon Troper.<sup>8</sup> It is likely enough that the Benedictines of St. Werburgh's, under their Abbat-Bishop Malachy, introduced into Down a St. Werburgh's missal. It is, in fact, difficult to imagine what else could have happened. New service-books were certainly introduced. That they were English books the decree of the Synod of Cashel leaves no room for doubt. The words of Jocelin make it equally certain that such books were in use in the neighbourhood of Down only in those Churches, such as Neddrum and possibly Inch, which had since 1178 come under English influence. Now if the Benedictines of St. Werburgh's brought a missal with them, it is natural to assume that our missal is its descendant.

And this hypothesis is confirmed by an examination of the contents of the missal itself. Let us turn first to the service for the Blessing of the Candles on February 2. Here we find a service used widely in the Province of Canterbury in the twelfth century,1 with some slight alterations, evidently made with the view of adapting it to local use-one of them being the addition of a rubric which is found totidem verbis in a Besançon Pontifical of the eleventh or twelfth century. custom which this rubric sanctions—of blessing the candles at the Lady Altar—seems to have been both comparatively early and largely confined to the Benedictine order. It is clear that at least this part of our book is derived from an English source, and is contemporary with John de Courcey. This one fact is almost sufficient, if not to decide in favour of Downpatrick as the place where the Rosslyn Missal was written, at least to exclude Saul. If the latter monastery had anything more than a nominal existence in the last quarter of the twelfth century, we have every reason to believe that it was bitterly opposed to the English innovations, and was not in the least degree likely to have adopted English forms of service.2

&lt;sup>2</sup> For more than one hundred and twenty years after it was plundered in 1170 Saul is not mentioned by the chroniclers. And during the same period there are, so far as I know, but two notices of it in contemporary documents. On both occasions its Abbat appears as acting in opposition to the English and their principal religious establishment at Down. In 1266 the Abbat of Saul, with others, disputed the validity of the election of a bishop, on the ground that the choice did not rest with the Benedictine convent of St. Patrick's, Down. (Theiner, Vetera Monumenta, No. 250, p. 100.) In 1273, the abbacy being vacant, the canons elected thereto, without royal licence, Molys (an Irishman if we may judge from his name) prior of Bangor, Co. Down. He was ejected, and in his room the Bishop of Down, having obtained licence from the secular power, appointed Galfrid de Stoks, Canon of Caerleon.

But this is not the only part of the missal which is as old as the twelfth century. The Antiphonale Missarum, from which the choral portions of the masses in the temporale were derived, was evidently of early date. In six cases¹ we find complete sets of offertory verses agreeing almost exactly with those in the Gregorian Antiphonary. Single verses are indeed occasionally found with the offertory in later English books, such as those of Westminster and Salisbury: but I am not aware that, except in our missal, an offertory survives with its verses complete after the twelfth century.²

Again, the collect for St. Patrick's Day, which seems to be based on an earlier composition, was apparently reduced to its present form not later than the twelfth century, possibly by Jocelin.<sup>3</sup> The mass for January I had in the exemplar, or an ancestor, of our missal its earlier title, which has been clumsily altered.<sup>4</sup> The form Suscipe sancta trinitas omits the name of St. John Baptist, which is usually found in later books.<sup>6</sup> And one preface is preserved which is not among those sanctioned by the Council of Westminster in 1175.<sup>6</sup> To these indications of early date we may perhaps add the fact that in several places mention is made of the Roman stations.<sup>7</sup> The stations (Prynne, Records, iii. p. 130 sq.) The only known patron of the monastery in the thirteenth century was Nicholas Mac Maelisa (see above p. xvi), 'one of the greatest opposers of the English,' says O'Donovan (Annals of Four Masters, Dublin, 1848, vol. i. p. 458), 'that ever governed the see of Armagh'—' the most godly and devout ecclesiastic of his time in Ireland,' say the Annalists (sub. ann. 1299 al. 1303), who with one consent ignore Downpatrick from the moment it came into English hands. See further, R. King, A Primer of the History of the Holy Catholic Church in Ireland, Dublin, vol. ii. (4th ed. 1868) p. 627 sq., vol. iii. (3rd ed. 1851) pp. 1109, 1114 sq.

are frequently recorded in the tenth century Missal of Leofric, but in the early part of the twelfth century they are but seldom noticed in the Missal of Robert of Jumièges, and I have not observed them in any of the later English books which have been printed.<sup>1</sup>

But we may call in palæography to our assistance. The Rosslyn Missal, though evidently of English origin,2 was transcribed from an Irish exemplar which was probably in existence for a considerable time before it was copied by our scribe, and which we may assume to have belonged to the Church in which he wrote. The former fact is evident from the character of many of the errors of which he has been guilty, while the age of the copy upon which he worked gives a simple reason for the extraordinary number of his blunders. We cite here but one instance, the common but peculiarly Irish symbol for autem (h) has several times been mistaken for h (haec) or h (hoc) or for the somewhat similar symbol for enim.4 This indicates that the exemplar was in an Irish hand. And it seems also to show that the interval between the writing of the exemplar and the date of the Rosslyn Missal was sufficient to allow of the symbol having almost passed out of use. Our scribe himself uses it but once, and on that one occasion he may perhaps be supposed to have simply reproduced it from the manuscript which lay before him. If the Irish missal upon which the scribe worked was already so antiquated in the fourteenth century, the English manuscript from which it was in its turn copied may well have been written in the days of John de Courcey.

But a discussion which has been necessarily lengthy may now be brought to an end. Its result has perhaps been to make the conclusion probable that the missal here printed is descended from one which belonged to the Benedictine house of St. Werburgh, Chester, in the twelfth century, and that it preserves some of its characteristic features.

Later History.

It appears that our missal was but little, if at all, used at the For proof of this statement we have recourse, not so much to the many errors which the carelessness and ignorance of the scribe, together with the probable difficulty of deciphering his exemplar, have produced, as to the fact that some of them must have been corrected at a very early date if the book was to serve any practical purpose. In two masses one or more of the collects have been omitted 1; the Proper Prefaces are arranged in such a way as to be most perplexing to anyone using the book, and are without titles2; and in one case Qui pridie is immediately connected with the clause Hanc igitur of the Canon,3 without any indication of the intervening Quam oblationem. None of these errors have been corrected by later hands. As negative evidence it may be mentioned that there is no mark of the Canon having been read more frequently than other parts of the book. And finally one gathering of the manuscript has been left unfinished.4

The conjecture<sup>5</sup> seems not an unreasonable one that shortly after the manuscript was written it was carried off from Downpatrick by one of the followers of Edward Bruce in 1316, and that it subsequently found its way into Scotland with the remnant of his army. There it was probably deposited in some monastic library. It may have owed its preservation during the troubles of the sixteenth century to the action of Henry Sinclair, Bishop of Ross, or of his nephew, Sir William Sinclair, Justiciar of Laudone, and in any case was probably added to the library collected by the latter at Rosslyn Castle, Midlothian, in 1560 or a few years later. It was certainly at Rosslyn Castle between 1582 and 1612, as it has been signed by the Sir William Sinclair, son of the last named, who held the estates during that period. About 1630 the Rosslyn Library was for the most part dispersed, and our missal, already mutilated, passed, with other books, into the hands of the well-known collector Sir James Balfour, and was placed in his library at Denmyln, Fifeshire. It then received its present binding, and the title 'Liturgia Sti Columbani Abatis (sic)' which is inscribed on a fly-leaf. The Denmyln collection was sold by auction in 1699, the greater part of it being acquired by the Faculty of Advocates: among the rest our missal, which was purchased for the not very extravagant sum of three shillings. In the Advocates' Library the book has remained ever since.

Some time before 1729 the manuscript was examined by Thomas Innes, who noticed the similarity of the script to that of the Drummond Missal, regarding both manuscripts as of the eleventh century.¹ Subsequently some other antiquaries appear to have inspected the missal and to have assigned it to the tenth century, but I am not aware that their researches have been published. In 1864, Bishop A. P. Forbes again drew attention to the book, in the introduction to his edition of the Arbuthnott Missal, in which he printed a list of the services contained in it, and the Collect for St. Patrick's Day.² He believed it to be 'perhaps not so old as the fourteenth century.' Mr. David Laing somewhat later studied the volume, but did not publish his results. Mr. F. E. Warren, in his edition of the Irish Missal at Corpus Christi College, Oxford (1879), gave a collation of the Canon, and subsequently (1881) printed the masses for St. Brigid and St. Patrick in his Liturgy and Ritual of the Celtic Church. And finally Dr. J. Wickham Legg collated the Temporale and Sanctorale in the notes to his edition of the Westminster Missal (1897, Henry Bradshaw Society, vol. xii.)

Relation between the Drummond, Corpus Christi College, Oxford, and Rosslyn Irish Missals.

The notes will serve to some extent to show the very close connexion which exists between the Rosslyn and Corpus Missals, and the somewhat less intimate relationship between them and the Drummond manuscript. Some of the results may perhaps with advantage be stated here. The matter may be regarded from three standpoints: with reference to (I) the text of the mass-collects and Canon; (2) the rubrics; (3) the choral portions of the masses. Let us examine these in their order.

I. The collects and Canon.<sup>3</sup> We begin with the Sanctorale, where the various authorities cited in our collations form themselves into groups much more clearly and satisfactorily than in the Temporale; and we restrict ourselves to those collects which are found in all the authorities save DGLΣ. The first fact which emerges is the close resemblance between the text of H and Y. In the collects just referred to there are 91 places in which one or more variants are recorded (exclusive of the endings of prayers). In no single one of these does H differ from Y. After this we notice a group of three which bear a striking resemblance to one another, though by no means so closely related as the two just mentioned: CEW. Of the 91 places referred to, E coincides with C in 83, and with W in 78; while C agrees

with W 82 times. When we bear in mind the countless scribal errors in both C and E this result is sufficiently remarkable. A third group is  $\Gamma\Lambda P$ .  $\Gamma\Lambda$  coincide 81 times,  $\Gamma P$  also 81 times, AP 78 times. With this group may be associated M, which agrees frequently with  $\Gamma$  (79 times) and P (78 times), but differs considerably from  $\Lambda$  (18 times). Turning now to that part of the Canon found in all the manuscripts, we discover the first two of these groups reappearing, with a slight modification. S joins HY-HY agreeing 71 times out of 78, HS 69 times, and SY no less than 72 times. CEW form a group as before, CE occurring 67 times, EW 71 times, CW 66 times. D, with which it is now possible to deal for the first time, is found to be more akin to E than to any other text, though it coincides less frequently with it than do CW. It differs from E 12 times, from C 17 times, and from W 16 times. In the Temporale H and Y are more frequently in agreement than any other pair of authorities, being found together 121 times out of 127.  $\Gamma$  is now associated rather with J and M than with  $\Lambda$  and P.  $\Gamma$ J and  $\Gamma$ M appear each 117 times and JM 116. The group CEW disappears. Proceeding to examine the collects of the votive masses common to CDEHSWY, our previous results are confirmed. We have to remark, however, that there is here greater variety among the different texts than before, and that the group CEW is somewhat disturbed, apparently through the influence of the Sarum upon the Westminster text. C agrees with E and W oftener than with any of the remaining books: CE being found 90 times, CW 92 times, CS only 76 times: EW 79 times, but ES nearly as often,-75 times. W in fact, though it coincides more frequently here with C than with any other text, agrees rather more closely with S (84) than with E (79). D is again an associate of the group CEW. It agrees 75 times with C, 76 times with E, 67 times with W, only 57 times with S, 50 times with H, and 46 times with Y. In consequence possibly of the Sarum influence on W alluded to above, we find D further from W than is any one of the remaining manuscripts. HY as before are close companions. They agree 115 times out of 128.

For our present purpose the main fact to be noted is that the Rosslyn and C.C.C.O. Missals are in the verbal text of their collects closely related, except in the Temporale, the Westminster Missal being their most constant English ally: while D follows in their wake, but at some little distance.

- 2. The Rubrics. Where they can be compared the resemblance of the rubrics in the Corpus and Rosslyn Missals is so close as to suggest a common source not very far removed from either.¹ Comparison with the Drummond Missal is here impossible.
- 3. The Antiphonale Missarum from which the choral parts of the masses of the Sanctorale in the Corpus and Rosslyn Missals have been derived, may very well have been the same book, the few variations between them being easily accounted for by a difference of choice among alternatives allowed in the Antiphonal. Here are the facts as gleaned from our notes. There are altogether sixteen masses common to the two books in the Proprium. For these they differ not once in the offices, and twice are together against the majority of authorities.2 In the office psalms they differ but once,3 and are in agreement against the majority eight times.4 In the grails (including the verses) they differ once5—or twice if we include a case in which the Rosslyn manuscript stands alone in one verse, while in the next it is with the Corpus manuscript against all others6 in ten cases they coincide absolutely against the bulk of authorities,7 and in one instance our missal has an alternative lesson and grail peculiar to itself.8 In two tracts9 they are in company against most others, and are never apart. In the offer-tories they differ once only,1 and five times agree against the majority.2 And in the commons they only once disagree,3 and eight times are together with support from only a few English books,4 or from none at all.5 The Drummond Missal can be compared with the other two in only one mass (St. Michael), and in this it differs from them both, and from the majority of books, in one of the verses of the grail, and in the offertory.6 Whether the resemblance between the choral portions of the Corpus and Rosslyn Missals extends to the Temporale we have scarcely evidence to decide, on account of the comparatively small amount of variation among the different books in the common masses in that part of the missal. Both of them agree much more closely with the Gregorian Antiphonary in the Temporale than in the Sanctorale. In the Votive Masses and the Mass for the Dead, evidence is again scanty: but it is not suggestive of a close affinity between the two missals. Both in its three Masses de tempore and in the Votive Masses the Drummond Missal differs considerably from both.7

Scribblings.

The vacant spaces in the margins of our manuscript have often been made the receptacle of notes of various kinds and written at various times. Only the very few which are liturgical in character have been recorded in the footnotes to the text. The remainder, so far as they can be transcribed, are gathered together here. They are for the most part not easy to read, and I have to thank Dr. Thomas Dickson for help in deciphering and dating them.

Abbreviations.

In the following list of the compendia scribendi of our manuscript mere contractions, occurring only once or twice, and plainly used without fixed rule, are omitted. They are found for the most part in the grails, &c., and rubrics. They consist of the first few letters of a word surmounted by a horizontal stroke to indicate the remainder.

Symbols used both in lessons (or collects) and grails are unmarked. Those marked <sup>1</sup> are found only in lessons or collects, those marked <sup>5</sup> only in grails, &c., those marked <sup>7</sup> only in rubric. Those marked <sup>1</sup> occur in lessons or collects and rubricated portions, but not elsewhere. Abbreviations peculiar to the Canon are marked <sup>c</sup>. In the case of less frequently used abbreviations references are given.

Orthography.

It is hoped that the subjoined list of the irregular spellings of our scribe may be found fairly complete, but in such a table it is often a matter of some difficulty to decide what should be included and what omitted. When a noun appears in an oblique case it may be assumed that it occurs with the spelling recorded only in that case, and usually only once. When a word is followed by &c. it is to be understood that the anomalous orthography is found in the cognate words. The note (passim) indicates that the word which it follows occurs frequently, and in most cases with the anomalous spelling here given.

The Present Edition.

In printing the text the manuscript has been followed closely, italics representing rubrics, and smaller type being used for grails, &c., for which the scribe has reserved a smaller script. As to punctuation: the inverted semi-colon has been reproduced as nearly as this could be accomplished with modern type (:'), the mark resembling a semi-colon is indicated by a point on the line (.), and the single point, by a point above the line (.). Contractions have been expanded. Where the scribe has accidentally omitted letters or words, these have been supplied within square brackets. Clerical errors which could not be dealt with in this way have been marked with an obelus (†), and this symbol has also been occasionally inserted after words which probably do not fall under the category of errors, as an indication that they have been exactly copied from the manuscript, when without some such mark they might have been regarded as mis-prints. Words or letters which from any cause have become illegible are conjecturally restored and enclosed in round brackets.

Deviations from the rule of exactly following the manuscript occur in the following cases. Titles of masses are printed in small capitals instead of italics; other headings begin with a capital letter; a full stop is placed at the end of all titles, and all collects, grails, verses, &c., without regard to the punctuation mark (if any) used in the manuscript, and in numerals V is used, though the MS. has U.

In the notes the text of the canon, the collects, and such other portions of the services as are not mere quotations from the Scriptures, are collated with seventeen other missals and sacramentaries. The method of notation employed in these collations may be most easily explained by taking an example.

Thus in the notes on p. 44, l. 6 sqq. the following statements are made:—The same collect occurs as secret of the corresponding mass in ACG, &c. (indicated by printing these symbols after the word Secret); in  $\Gamma$  it is the secret of the 'missa in tempore belli.' In l. 6 HY add the word 'nostrum' after 'sacrificium'; in l. 7 all the authorities named read 'bellorum' instead of 'bellatorum'; in l. 8 all except AFRS read 'potestatis' for 'potestates,' and of these four R omits the word, while AFS agree with E.

The index of forms has been so constructed as to serve for the Corpus, Drummond and Stowe Missals. It includes all forms printed in the side-notes to the printed editions of these MSS. or referred to in the notes to the present work.

A record of the words in the epistles and gospels over which 'inflection marks' are placed in the manuscript is also kept in the notes.

The lessons are not printed in full in the text, but in the appendix they are collated with Vercellone's edition of the Vulgate.

To the Bishop of Edinburgh is due the first suggestion that it would be convenient for students to have in their hands a printed edition of the Rosslyn Missal. Its preparation for the press has been made by him the occasion of many kindnesses to the editor, not the least of which has been the permission to make use of his valuable collection of liturgical books. Mr. H. A. Wilson, Mr. E. S. Dewick, and Dr. J. Wickham

Legg have been good enough to read the proofs of this work. How useful their criticisms and suggestions have been to the editor the members of the Henry Bradshaw Society will not need to be told; but how frequent and troublesome have been his demands upon their learning and their time, and with what unfailing kindness they have answered questions, and consulted printed books and manuscripts on his behalf, is known only to himself. The editor is also much indebted to Miss C. M. Mackenzie for help in preparing the Index of Forms.

APPENDIX.

COLLATION OF THE SCRIPTURE LESSONS WITH THE TEXT OF THE CLEMENTINE VULGATE (VERCELLONE'S EDITION, ROME, 1861).

In the following collation variants marked with  $(\ddagger)$  are supported by the Codex Amiatinus. In the Gospels an asterisk has been prefixed to readings which are supported by one or more manuscripts of the group DELQR $r_1r_2$  (Wordsworth's notation) or by the Book of Mulling, against all other manuscripts of which collations are given in the Oxford Vulgate. These may usually be regarded as distinctively Irish readings. For the MSS. DELR the collations of Wordsworth and White have been used. For the rest recourse has been had to the originals in the Library of Trinity College, Dublin. Mere variations of spelling have not been recorded, but it has not been thought well in all cases to leave unnoticed what seem to be clerical errors. Occasionally (as at Matt. xxvii. 38) they are survivals of true variants of the Irish type.

TEMPORALE.

NATIVITAS DOMINI.

p. 3. l. 3. The manuscript begins in the middle of the Gospel (Joh. i. I-14) for the third mass of Christmas Day. The earlier part of the Temporale probably filled a single gathering of four or five sheets, supposing that it contained the same masses as the corresponding part of c. But reasons have been given in the Introduction, p. xii, for believing that this was not the first quire of the manuscript in its original state.

l. 4. gratia] Read gratiae.

1. 5. offerenda] This rather than offertorium is the correct expansion of off. The word is only once written in full (p. 36, 1. 1), and in that instance this is the form used. The same word is used for the offertory by Remigius of Auxerre in his Expositio Missae (quoted by Le Brun, Explication, vol. ii. p. 281, ed. 1777): Deinde sequitur offerenda, quae inde hoc nomen accepit, quod tunc populus sua munera offerat. Sequuntur versus a vertendo, dicte, quod in offerendis reuertantur, dum offerenda repetitur.' So also Mabillon's Ordo i. Appendix, cap. 10: 'Non cantent offerenda'; Ordo xi. cap. 20: 'Primicerius cum schola cantant offerenda'; cf. capp. 40, 43; Ordo xii. cap. 31. Micrologus, cap. 10 (Hittorp, De Divinis Catholicae Ecclesiae Officiis ac Ministeriis, Coloniae, 1568, p. 440): 'Finito euangelio statim est offerendum, dum et offerenda canitur'; cap. 11: 'Romanus tamen ordo nullani orationem instituit post offerendam ante secretam.' Lanfranc, quoted by Martène, De Mon. Rit. III. xv. 22 (col. 413)1: 'In hac consuetudine concordant omnes fere principales monachorum ecclesiae, quae nostro tempore majoris authoritatis sunt, sicut et in eo quod offerenda et Agnus Dei et communio ad hanc Missam non dicuntur.' Durandus, Rationale IV. xxvii. 7: 'Dicitur etiam offertorium, quia dum offerenda cantatur sacerdos accipit oblationes.' And so we find it in the Ambrosian Liturgy (Daniel, Codex Liturgicus, Lipsiae 1847, fasc. i. p. 72; Duchesne, Origines du Culte Chrétien, Paris, 1898, p. 196), the Book of Evesham, A, p. 98, note, and the Sarum Consuctudinary.

See also Radulphus de Rivo, De Canonum Observantia, prop. 23 (Hittorp, p. 574b). Amalarius uses the word, but with a different meaning, applying it to the portion of the mass extending from Dominus uobiscum to the end of the secret; De Eccl. Off. iii. 19

l. 6. This is the offertory in CHARSWY, but in all these the verses (ll. 9-14) are omitted. In  $\Gamma^a$  we find three verses: ll. 9-11 forming the major part of the first, and l. 12 sq. the third, between which is intercalated a second, Misericordia et ueritas, while Firmetur is Single verses are occasionally added to the offertory in late English Missals (e.g. sw), but they seem to have been generally disused since the custom of making the oblations at this part of the service was abandoned. The scribe in no case gives this title in full. It is therefore impossible to determine with certainty whether he would have written postcommunio or post communionem. In most instances the spacing seems to favour the latter, and it has accordingly been printed throughout.

l. 26. Alia ad horas diei] This collect is found in several of the older Sacramentaries and Missals in a position corresponding to that which it occupies here, under various titles. I has it after the postcommon, and P after the super populum, as the first of 'Aliae orationes de natali dni.' In A it is headed 'ad populum,' in J simply 'alia.' On the other hand M has it with the title 'Ad matutinum' after the postcommon of the first Christmas mass (in vig. dni. in nocte), while in G it is one of the collects of the second mass (mane prima). The heading seems to imply that in E it was intended to be used (as apparently also in M) instead of the Mass Collect at the Divine Office. In this respect the usage in our missal differs from that of all the later English books.

Except in z and here I have not met with it as a mass collect. It is very common as the postcommon for the Vig. of St. Matthew (see W p. 1593).

The stations are given twice elsewhere in E (p. 14, l. 10; p. 15, l. 16), and occasionally in the older English missals, e.g. for Christmas Day in J and frequently in A. Our scribe seems not to have understood these indications, and he appears to have copied the one before us incorrectly. ### OCTAVAE NATALIS DOMINI.

l. 14. The title of this mass is unusual. It combines that of the earlier books (Octauae natalis dni. GFJAMPRZ) with that of the later missals (In circumcisione dni. AHSWY). It is thus a 'conflate' heading, and the mark of the conflation remains in the fact that the date KP Ianuarii is in the middle instead of at the beginning of the title. 1. 19. ### DOMINICA I POST NATALE DOMINI.

l. 15. This mass appears with different titles in many missals and sacramentaries. It is as here for the Sunday within the octave in AMPRZ, for the Sunday after the octave in FJAW, for the sixth day after Christmas, whether Sunday or not, in S, for the sixth day, if a Sunday, in H. On the other hand a different mass, with the same title, is found in  $\Gamma(\text{col. 158})$  JA. Y, in the mass for the Sunday within the octave, agrees with the latter group in the collects (except the postcommon), otherwise with the former. See further Dr. Legg's note (w p. 1454). This mass for the Sunday within the octave might more naturally have come before that for the Circumcision, but anomalies in the order of masses occur elsewhere in E, and in W the converse misplacement is found, the Sunday after the octave coming before the octave. Moreover the order in Az agrees with that of E.

All the other missals in which I have observed this gospel (HRSWYZ) add at the end the remainder of v. 40 et gratia dei erat in illo.

1. 3. We should probably read V. Dominus regnauit. The p. 9. exemplar appears to have now and then used  $\bar{u}$  (not as our scribe  $\bar{v}$ ) as the equivalent of V, and the copyist has several times mistaken this symbol for u = ut. See p. 27, l. 1; p. 34, l. 6: compare D p. 10, 1. 15. Confusion might easily occur between  $d\overline{m}$  (= deum) and  $d\overline{n}s$ (= dominus) in an Irish hand. Thus at p. 77, l. 20 possibly dominum is a mis-reading of deum. More to the point is p. 52, l. 9, where E has correctly deum, while c (p. 149) has dni. If we have succeeded in restoring the reading of the exemplar, the blunders of E point to its having been an Irish MS. In any case this verse is peculiar, it would seem, to E. TaHRSY have no verse, while W has Lux fulgebit. C is without the mass.

The first word should have been printed Klarissi me. The full text had been given in the second Christmas mass. It will be observed that the grail, offertory and common are omitted, and catch-words are not given (as in the office and epistle) to guide us. It is natural to suppose that these choir parts were intended to be supplied from the immediately preceding mass for the Sunday after Christmas. And this conjecture is supported by other evidence in the case of the offertory and common. In HRSWY the common is repeated from the corresponding mass; and so also is the offertory in all of these except H. The grail presents more difficulty. The majority of English Missals use on this day the same grail as at the second Christmas mass; and no book cited by Dr. Legg (w p. 1455) repeats that of the Sunday after Christmas. But on the other hand R and some MSS. of  $\Gamma^a$  take all their choir portions from that mass: and we may perhaps assume that in this case E follows Roman rather than Anglican usage.

1. 31. Read illuminare for et lluminare. The letter i has been mistaken for the sign 7 (= et), which is very common in Irish MSS. Or possibly the scribe, by a slip of the pen, has written 7 for i. See Plate I. l. 6.

l. 35. The parts of the mass following the gospel—viz. the offertory, secret, common and postcommon—are omitted. This may be accounted for either (1) by the carelessness of the scribe, or (2) on the supposition that the missing parts were intended to be supplied from the preceding mass (cf. above on p. 9, l. 22). Against the latter hypothesis is (a) the unlikelihood that there would be a special collect, epistle, and gospel for the octave, without a special secret and postcommon; ( $\beta$ ) the fact that there seems to be no other example of the secret and postc. of Epiphany being used for the octave; and ( $\gamma$ ) the further fact that the scribe has elsewhere left masses incomplete: see pp. 78, 91. If we have really here a blunder of the scribe it is unlikely that the missal should have been in use for any considerable time without at least the catch-words of the missing collects being supplied by a corrector. This is one of several indications that the book was little, if at all, used at the altar.

DOMINICA PRIMA EPIPHANIAE.

l. I. Read epifaniae, as p. II, l. 7. This seems the most natural emendation, the substitution of a for ae being frequent, though it yields what is apparently a unique title for this mass. Dr. Legg (W p. 1456) is probably right in taking it as equivalent to Dominica i post Epiphaniam (with AT (col. 159) JARZ) rather than Dominica i post oct. Epiph. (HSWY). Against this the position of the mass after the octave is no argument; for the same order obtains in  $\Lambda$ : see also above on p. 8, l. 15. It is not impossible that the order in such cases may indicate the actual practice, the title being copied from an earlier book and therefore being misleading. If we have rightly understood the title of the present mass, it would seem that in it the word 'epiphania' is applied rather to the season beginning with Epiphany than to the day itself. A similar use of 'Ascensio' is found in Z, where the Sunday after Ascension is called Dominica prima Ascensionis. And in like manner Septuagesima seems to be a season in A, which has for the Conversion of St. Paul 'in lxx\*. Tract. Tu es uas.'

I. 5. This psalm (lxv. 1, 2) is found also in Γ<sup>a</sup>W and some St. Gall MSS. (Frere, Graduale Sarisburiense, Index.) More commonly (HRSY) we have here Ps. xcix. 2, Jubilate deo omnis terra seruite.

In RW the ant. during the distribution is Immutenur (see l. 19), R adding also Iuxta uestibulum (l. 15), with psalm or responsory differing from those given here ll. 18, 22.

It's sqq. These two antiphons are omitted in C and the printed editions of Y. They are said (without psalms) during the procession in H and some MSS. of Y (Henderson p. 46 note, p. 47). One of them (Immutemur) in W, and both in R, are connected with the distribution. At Evesham the antiphon Immutemur was sung 'cum interpollatione uersuum psalmi Deus misereatur nostri'; and according to the Bodleian MS. Rawl. c. 425 the psalm Deus misereatur was to be used during the procession 'si opus fuerit' (w col. 555 note).

The latter part of the mass, including a portion of the epistle, being absent from R through the loss of a leaf, I have used for the purpose of collation another pre-Pian edition, Missale Romanum impensis Lucantonii de giunta Venetiis 1506. V Id. Jan., which I designate as R'.

1. 19. It will be observed that there is no grail. Γ<sup>a</sup>W in like manner have two tracts and no grail. Ps. xxiv. 17 sq., here given as the tract, is in the vast majority of English books the grail. s and the Sherborne missal include the first half of v. 17, beginning Tribulationes cordis, and mark a  $\sqrt[n]{}$  before uide (l. 20): so R'. But the greater number begin, as  $\Gamma^a E$ , with De necessitatibus (see Dr. Legg's note, w p. 1461, in which, however, there is an error with regard to our manuscript). C is without the mass.

Epistle. Inflection mark over Title ad.

l. 20. Read uidens. Most missals do not mark Quia, &c., as a verse.

l. 21. There can be little doubt that the scribe has blundered here. Deus deus meus is the beginning of the tract in CI°HARSWY, and apparently in almost all other English books. For  $\sqrt[n]{}$  we should therefore read Tractus. And if this correction be accepted we may, with the authorities just mentioned, supply after usque the words populo qui nascetur quem fecit dns., making the tract Ps. xxi. 2-9, 18b, 19, 22, 24, 32, as in S.

l. 22 sqq. There is a paragraph in all missals (marked in E by a large ornamental initial) at Altera autem die, the beginning of the Gospel. But the break at Et hymno dicto is rare. It is found also in C.

It will be observed that this passion is lettered in such a way as to suggest that it was intended to be recited by three persons. This fact may perhaps give some help in determining the date of the missal, since the custom of reciting the passion in this manner seems not to have been ancient. It should be noticed that the lettering does not appear in the passion according to St. John in the Good Friday service. And in this respect E agrees with its contemporary C. In the latter the Palm Sunday passion is given at full length and lettered, but in the case of the Wednesday and Friday passions the text is not transcribed, and they were clearly supposed to be read from a book of the Gospels. Thus in both missals the Palm Sunday passion alone was to be divided between three ministers. elaborate singing of the Passion would quite naturally at first be confined to this day,1 and so we may have here an indication that both the Corpus and Rosslyn Missals belong to a period when the custom referred to had not fully established itself in the Irish Church. Unfortunately, however, data are not at present available for fixing the date when the practice had its beginning. In Rome it would seem not to have had place before the fifteenth century, since Mabillon's Ordo xv (end of fourteenth century) directs that the passion is to be said by a single Cardinal deacon. In some French Churches it was not in vogue till the seventeenth or eighteenth century.¹ Elsewhere it arose much earlier. In the Bobbio Missal in the Ambrosian Library (D. 84. inf.), which belongs to the tenth century, the words of our Lord are indicated by a mark in the margin, just as we find in two early printed Sarum missals (4° Venice, 1494, folio Rouen, 1497) His words marked with a cross. The evidence of Durandus (Rationale, VI.¹sviii. 6) proves that the custom goes back to the thirteenth century. In England the evidence of manuscript Sarum Missals shows that it was prevalent at the beginning of the fifteenth century; but whether it may be traced to an earlier date I do not know.

The letters used to indicate the different parts in E are unusual—t, c, s. The two latter are found in Roman books both modern and pre-Pian, in which the sayings of Christ are indicated by a cross. It seems probable that the scribe of E mistook the cross, in the manuscript from which he copied the symbols, for a T, and that from this error has arisen his use of that letter for the words of Christ, which I believe is without parallel. He may very well have found  $\mathbf{H} \cdot c \mathbf{s}$  in an English book. In Dickinson's reprint of the Sarum Missal the letters are  $b \cdot m \cdot a$  (for the explanation of which see the rubric in col. 264); but in the early printed editions  $\mathbf{H} \cdot c \cdot s$  are not uncommonly used, while in MSS. of the fifteenth century they appear to be the rule. In C we have  $i \cdot c \cdot s$ , the first of which clearly stands for ihesus. See further Gavanti, Thesaurus Sacrorum Rituum, iv. 7. 18; Catalani, Rituale Romanum, ix. 5. 7, 8 (second edition, Patavii typis seminarii 1760 vol ii p. 187 so.)

iv. 7. 18; Catalani, Rituale Romanum, ix. 5. 7, 8 (second edition, Patavii typis seminarii, 1760, vol. ii. p. 187 sq).

[Since writing the above my attention has been directed by Mr. Dewick to a Utrecht Missal printed at Leyden in 1514 in which the letters of the passions are t m a, explained in the following rubric: 'Est notandum quod vbicunque habetur m . . . mediocriter cantari debet. vbi autem a alte . sed vbi t tacite.' This seems to suggest that at Utrecht the passion was sung by one person with varying tones, rather than by three persons. This is consistent with the words of Durandus above referred to, 'Cantus uerborum Christi dulcius moderantur (v.l. modulantur) . . . euangelistae . . . uerba in tono euangelii proferentur (v.l. -untur). Verba uero impiissimorum Iudaeorum clamose et cum asperitate uocis'; and possibly also with the lettering of E. Further, it may be plausibly conjectured that the t of E is not a mistake of the scribe, but, as in the Utrecht book, equivalent to tacite; c and s representing respectively clare and s moriter. The word s norriter is used in a somewhat similar manner in the Dublin manuscript Pontifical B. 3, 6.]

The resemblance between the rubrics of E and C is very striking. They are often verbally identical when, in other books, even though the same sense is expressed, it is couched in different terms. It is a reasonable inference that they were derived from a common source; and, if this be so, the rubrics of the one may be taken as giving the practice supposed in the other, even when there is no expressed direction. An illustration is afforded by the present rubric, which is identical with that in C, except that the latter reads sustentatur for sustineatur. 5. acolitis] So we find in M, Mabillon's Ordo i., Hittorp (p. 66), Λ (p. 62), and in service books of the Churches of Noyon, Châlons en Champagne, St. Germain des Prés, Corbie, and Montecassino, cited by Martène, De Ant. Eccl. Rit. IV. xxiii. 27 (t. iii. coll. 372, 379, 382), De Mon. Rit. III. xiv. 25, 26 (col. 392 sq.), Post orationes praeparatur crux ante altare . . . sustentata hinc et inde a duobus acolythis.' Similarly a Poitiers book, Martène, De Ant. Eccl. Rit. l.c. (iii. col. 375). I have not noticed elsewhere, except in C, the direction that the Cross is to be supported by acolytes. R has simply ministris, S presbyteri de superiori gradu, Y vicarii, H presbyteri.
cantantibus hos uersus] The manner of singing this part of the service (ll. 7-24) seems to be nearly identical in the two Irish Missals and in the uses of Hereford, Salisbury, and York. The antiphons are sung by the two who support the cross, Agios by two others (deacons in SY), and Sanctus by the choir. In R the arrangement is Agios . . . Sanctus. Ita tamen quod primus chorus semper reincipit Agyos. Deinde duo fratres de primo choro cantant V. Quid ultra Item chori alternatim respondent Agyos. Sanctus ut dictum est.' In HSY (and so apparently E) the uncovering of the cross follows, in R it precedes, the singing of the antiphons.

1. 6. episcopus] The bishop, it will be noticed, takes the chief place; which points to the fact that our missal belonged to a cathedral church. capa] During the lessons he had been vested in a chasuble (RS &c.).

First Antiphon. CHRSY.

'Duo diaconi de secunda forma . . . ad gradum chori ad altare conuersi's: 'duo diaconi... in medio chori ante ostium occidentale chori'y: 'alii duo... stantes in medio chori' H. C is again very similar to E: 'Quibus respondendum sit a duobus aliis paratis qui sic dicunt.'

l. 12. Read dicat. Cf. c: 'Deinde subsequatur chorus et dicat flectendo genua.'

l. 14. C is again identical with E. Second Antiphon. CHRSY.

Third Antiphon. CHRSY.

1. 22. mixto cum felle om. CR cum felle mixto H. siti mea C.

l. 23. preforasti† C. saluatori tuo CHR.

l. 24. C inserts here an address to the people followed by a rubric, which appears to be in part a misplaced repetition with slight variation of that given above 1. 4 sq. ('Post host orationes (sic) expletas preparatur crux ante altare . . . sustentata huic† et inde a duobus diaconibus', &c.). Then follow antiphons and psalms during the adoration of the priest, and finally the hymn Crux fidelis, as here (l. 26).

l. 31. Here we may suppose, as in C, took place the adoration of the clergy and people.

l. 32. A rubric has clearly been omitted here. It may be supplied from C: 'salutata uero cruce et reposita in loco suo discendit pontifex aut sacerdos ante altare et dicit oremus, preceptis salutaribus moniti. Pater noster sed libera. Sumit de sancto et ponit in calicem nihil dicens.' Compare Hittorp, p. 66 (recte 68), M. There is no mention of the Confiteor and other prayers directed to be said here in HSV. See Martène, De Ant. Eccl. Rit. IV. xxiii. 23 (t. iii. col. 366): 'Veteres nihil praeter orationem Dominicam et Libera nos dicebant.'

1. 34. This is the postcommon for the preceding day. I know of no other authority for saying it at this place on Good Friday. In GMPR there is no postcommon. In HY Refectibus uitalibus comes at the end of Vespers, and in S, in the same place, Respice q. dne.: but here there is a separate collect for Vespers (p. 33, l. 7). l. 34. HSY and the Aberdeen Breviary have the same psalms and antiphons for Vespers on Good Friday as on Maundy Thursday. And this was the usual rule. In E, however, there is a variation. The five psalms are sung under a single antiphon Calicem salutaris, instead of having (p. 27, l. 34 sqq.) a separate antiphon for each psalm. The closest parallel which I can cite is the direction of a Strasbourg Ordinary of A.D. 1364 that the vesper psalms on Good Friday shall be sung without antiphons (Martène, De Ant. Eccl. Rit. t. iii. col. 395).

p. 33. l. 4. S and the Aberdeen Breviary have the same antiphon for Magnificat as on Maundy Thursday: Cenantibus autem. Hy have Thesus autem cum accepisset (the two first words omitted in H), l. 7. This collect is not found here in any other missal with which I am acquainted. Two collects occur elsewhere in E, both of which begin with these words, and either of which may therefore be here intended—that for the Exaltation of the Cross, p. 67, l. 16, and that for the Mass de S. Cruce, p. 78, l. 30. The latter, as being the more frequently used of the two, is probably the one here referred to: though it may be noted that the former (with some variations) is found between the adoration and the mass of the pre-sanctified in a Lyons MS. of the thirteenth century, and in a sixteenth century printed missal of the same Church (Martène, De Ant. Eccl. Rit. IV. xxiii., t. iii. col. 384 sq.). But it must be remarked that in all previous instances where the parts of masses are indicated by cues the full text had appeared in an earlier part of the book. Not improbably therefore the Missa de S. Cruce came before that now under consideration. If so the arrangement of our missal resembled that of c, the Votive Masses preceding the Temporale. Other indications pointing to the same conclusion will be noticed hereafter.

hic induit se casula The form of this rubric and the absence of the title in the MS. appear to indicate that in the exemplar this was not the beginning of the service. The 'benedictio cerei' probably preceded the lessons, as in C. There is no rubric here in C, but Y (p. 111) has the direction 'Sequitur benedictio Cerei Paschalis . . . Prælato capato interim in sede sua residente'; and later on, when the lessons are about to begin, 'Prælatus interim Casula in reuestiario indutus' &c., which agrees with, and explains, the rubric before us. The litanies in CRWY begin with Kyrie eleison, Christe eleison, which may have been accidentally omitted here. But, on the other hand, the litany at the beginning of the Stowe Missal (MacCarthy, p. 192) begins with Christe audi nos thrice repeated: followed, however, by Kyrie eleison.

1. 32. Alleluia is written in the same hand as the epistle, not in the smaller script used for the choir portions. eodem; v. 9 mesopotamiam.

This verse seems peculiar to EA among later books (Wp. 1480). DR have Ueni sancte spiritus, HY Paracletus spiritus, W both of these, while CS give Spiritus sanctus procedens. Γa, as printed, has only one versus alleluiaticus, but manuscripts cited by the Benedictine editors have two, identical with those in E.

Gospel. Marks are found over some words in this gospel which do not occur elsewhere in the missal, viz: over v. 23 diligit pri., ad eum; v. 24 qui non, audistis; v. 25 hec; v. 26 pater; v. 27 pacem pri.; v. 28 ego, diligeritis: and over v. 24 meus; v. 27 uobis pri.

p. 42. l. 26. It is observed in the footnote that the rubricator has omitted to supply titles on f. 73, and the three following leaves. This may be accounted for as the result of pure accident. This explanation however is scarcely satisfactory in view of the fact that the leaves in question form a complete gathering. If it be rejected it may be suggested either (I) that the writing of this gathering was not completed when the remainder of the manuscript was rubricated, or (2) that it was intended to cancel these leaves and that in consequence of this the rubricator passed over them. In favour of (1) is the fact, the probability of which will presently appear, that the major part of the contents of this gathering was inserted as an after-thought: in favour of (2) certain mistakes in the prefaces which will be mentioned On either hypothesis the MS. was left unfinished—a confirmation of the supposition that it was used but little, if at all, at the altar. Indeed the fact that the titles of the prefaces were not added till a date considerably later than that of the writing of the missal, and then (in one case) erroneously, points to the same conclusion significantly enough.

1. 31 sqq. This occurs in Γ<sup>2</sup> as the verses of the offertory, with the exception of Ibi beniamini usque excessu, which is clearly an additional verse. V is inserted in Ta before in ecclesiis (l. 32) and regna (l. 33). In CDHARSWY all after l. 30 is rejected. Compare above

l. 12. The absence of a special mass for Trinity Sunday is worthy of note. The festival was certainly observed in Ireland as early as A.D. 1305. It is mentioned in the letter of the nobles of Ireland to Pope John XXII, preserved in Bower's additions to the Scotichronicon of Fordun, as the occasion of a banquet to which in that year Peter Bermingham treacherously invited some of his kinsmen, whom he murdered after the repast (J. de Fordun Scotichronicon . . . curâ W. Goodall, Edinburgh, 1759, vol. ii. p. 263; King's Primer of the History of the Holy Catholic Church in Ireland, vol. iii. Dublin, 1851, p. 1127).

DE INVENTIONE S. CRUCIS.

l. 13. The position of this mass as a sort of appendix to the Temporale is peculiar. The simplest account of the matter appears to be the following. The mass was accidentally omitted from its proper place in the Sanctorale. Now in the gatherings assigned to the Sanctorale there were no vacant pages. It happened however that the small gathering of two sheets at the end of the Temporale was not completely filled. Two or three of its blank leaves were therefore utilized for the omitted mass. It will be observed that the grail, offertory and common all differ from those of C; which suggests the possibility that this mass was not taken from the exemplar which supplied the remainder of the Sanctorale. ### PRAEFATIONES.

l. 18. On this collection of prefaces several remarks suggest themselves:—

(1) They are those sanctioned by the Council of Westminster, 1175 (see Chronica Rogeri de Hoveden, Rolls edn., ii. p. 76; Wilkins, Concilia, i. 478), except that there is no preface de Apostolis, and that the Trinity preface is omitted, being given elsewhere

(p. 73, l. 16).

(2) They are not, as in CD, given with the masses to which they belong, but gathered together apart. This is the more remarkable since the special clauses of the Canon Communicantes, &c., are always given in full with their masses, and not as in S, &c., with the prefaces.

(3) They are in an unusual position, not in immediate connexion with the Canon.

(4) The order in which they are arranged is incorrect, and would have been confusing if the book had been in actual use: those for Pentecost and Ascension being transposed, and the two belonging to the Sanctorale and Votive Masses being intruded into the middle of those connected with the great festivals of the Temporale. The last four, in fact, appear to be in the reverse of their proper order.

(5) They were left without titles by the original scribe.

(6) In the masses to which they belong the cues are not (with one exception, p. 36, l. 7) given. This seems unusual, though it has a parallel in the Lateran Missal edited by de Azevedo.

(7) In the one case in which the text, though ultimately derived from the same original, differs remarkably from that given in C (p. 45, l. 8), the more ancient English form is departed from in favour of that found in later books. And, in like manner, in the Epiphany preface, E, agreeing with the majority, deserts C, while the latter has the support of AJ.

(8) In one case (p. 80, l. 22) a preface, identical with that which is similarly placed in D, is found in its proper position in the mass to which it belongs, no corresponding form appearing here.

From these facts certain inferences seem to follow with greater or less probability:—

1. That the book was not in use at the altar. See (4), (5), (6), and compare (3).

2. That the collection of prefaces was added, subsequently to the writing of the main part of the missal, on the blank pages left in the final gathering of the Temporale. This accounts for (3). Compare above on p. 43, l. 13.

3. That in the exemplar from which E was copied the prefaces were given with their respective masses, but were omitted by the scribe; the single one which remains in situ, having escaped his vigilance. Cf. below on p. 73, l. 16. This would account for (6). It will also explain (4) and the omission mentioned under (1), if we suppose that the prefaces were not simply transcribed from a similar collection, but collected by the scribe himself from a book in which they were distributed through the masses on the older plan.

4. That the prefaces of the exemplar resembled those of D rather than those of C: see (8).

5. That the prefaces which replaced them were probably taken from a different and later source: see (7).

In HRSWY it is assigned to all festivals and votive masses of our Lady except the Purification (and votive masses between Christmas and Purification, SW); in J to the votive masses and the Assumption; in AFAM to the Assumption only. C has it for the votive masses and the Purification, no preface being given in the masses for the Annunciation, Assumption and Nativity. E agrees with C, against the bulk of other authorities, in directing its use on the Purification; but differs from it and most others in having a different preface for the votive masses: see p. 80, l. 22.

purificatione &c.] The word ueneratione is used on all occasions alike in ACFJAM, commemoratione in R (except in the votive masses, for which it gives veneratione) Z. In other books the word is varied according to the day: H, however, giving ueneratione for the Annunciation as well as for the votive masses. In the important various readings recorded in the following collation at ll. 9, 10, it will be seen that E follows the later English group SWY against CFJAM. It should here be remarked that the more modern form of the preface is found on the first page of C in an English hand (Warren's Introduction, p. 30), and that the older form has, in the votive mass in that MS. (Warren, p. 61), been corrected so as to bring it into conformity with the later. Thus we have proof that in at least one Irish monastery the later Preface of our Lady was introduced from England at a time perhaps not far distant from that at which E was written.

SANCTORALE.

IN DIE S. ANDREAE.

p. 46. l. 2. The title of this mass as it is written in the manuscript—In die ad misam—implies that in the exemplar it was preceded by a mass for the Vigil. We have thus an indication that E was copied from a fuller missal, from which only a selection of masses was made. Compare above on p. 33, l. 10; p. 41, l. 2, and below on p. 68, l. 14. This may perhaps help to explain the omission of the Invention of the Cross from the Sanctorale. See above on p. 43, l. 13.

1. 3. The full text of this office does not appear in the missal. And it seems not to occur in other books outside the Sanctorale and Common of Saints. St. Andrew's Day being the first festival in the former according to the arrangement of our Missal, it is not likely that it was intended that the remaining words should be supplied from another mass in it. The inference is plain that either E when perfect, or its exemplar, had a Common of Saints. And this conclusion is confirmed by the fact that Mihi autem is the office of One Apostle in both C and D.

This offertory does not appear in full in the missal. But it is found in the Common of D for One Martyr and for the Vigil of One Confessor. l. 6. This mass is identical (even in the scribe's blunder l. 17) with that for the same day in C, and the three collects are founded on English models. The following collects for St. Brigid's Day from the Breviary of Kilmoon (Trinity College, Dublin, MS. B. 1. 5) f. 1171 a appear to be without exact English parallel. (1) O. s. d. qui elegis infirma mundi ut forcia queque confundas! da nobis in festivitute sancte brigide mentis et corporis ut ad te toto corde curramus et corpore tibi semper serviamus. per. The text is here evidently corrupt, a word having fallen out before mentis. This collect is found in a somewhat shorter form in the Gregorian Sacramentaries and the Roman missal for SS. Agnes and Euphemia, in the Common of One Virgin in D, and for S. Agnes in S, and one somewhat similar in the Leonine and Gelasian Sacramentaries for S. Cecilia. #### IN PURIFICATIONE S. MARIAE. BENEDICTIO CANDELARUM.

l. 23. The service for the blessing of the candles in our missal very closely resembles one which was widely used in England—at least in the Province of Canterbury—in the twelfth century. It is here printed from four manuscript Pontificals, which, with one other belonging to the diocese of Winchester (Cambridge University Library Ee. 2. 3), form a group apart. They are the following: a. Magdalen College, Oxford, MS. 226 (belonged to Hereford in fourteenth century); β. Cambridge University Library, MS. Ll. 2. 10 (Diocese of Ely); γ. Trinity College, Cambridge, MS. B. 11. 10. (Diocese of Ely); δ. Trinity College, Dublin, MS. B. 3. 6. (apparently

The Winchester Pontifical referred to above has a service closely resembling this, but with rubrics which, though equivalent in meaning, are differently expressed. It adds a preface before the sprinkling and censing of the candles, Uere dignum . . . . fons et origo, and a collect immediately after the distribution, while the antiphon Puer iesus is omitted. This service therefore was used very generally throughout the Province of Canterbury.

Now when we compare the service in the Canterbury, Hereford and Ely books with that of our missal we discover a marked resemblance between them. The rubrics, so far as they are common, are almost verbally identical; the same may be said of the prayers, as the collations given below prove; and there are in fact only the following instances of divergence:-

(1) The first rubric in E is absent from the English books, as are also the words ante altare, p. 50, l. 18.

(2) The two collects Deus cuius unigenitus, and Immensam maiestatis are also absent from the English Pontificals.

(3) For the antiphon Puer iesus (omitted at Winchester) there is substituted in E Aue gratia plena.

It is clear that the office in E is founded on that in use in England in the twelfth century. For the bearing of this fact on the history of our missal see the Introduction, p. xxii.

1. 24. This rubric is not found in the Pontificals of Canterbury, Ely and Hereford, and in directing that the candles shall be blessed at the altar of our Lady it contradicts the Winchester book, which enjoins, 'fiat processio ad altare crucifixi in quo candelae sunt benedicende.' Indeed it bears clear marks of being a later addition in its inconsistency with another rubric of our service, p. 51, l. 12, where the words 'cum in chorum redierint' plainly imply that the blessing had taken place at the High Altar. An almost verbally identical rubric is found in this place in C and in a Pontifical of Besançon cited by Martène, De Antiquis Ecclesiae Ritibus, IV. xv. 5. (Ordo ii.) tom. iii. col. 129, and assigned by him to the first half of the twelfth century. The service to which it is prefixed in the latter has no very close resemblance to that of our missal. fratres] This word appears at first sight to imply that the service was intended for monastic use: and if so it is the only direct indication in the manuscript that E is a monastic missal. But the inference is uncertain, for the word is also found in the Besançon Pontifical just mentioned. In this book the rubric seems to have had primary reference to collegiate churches—such as those of St. Stephen and St. John, which in the twelfth century were rival claimants for the possession of the Chair of the Archbishop of Besançon¹—presided over by Dean and Canons. In this case the words frater might be used of any member of the corporation, clerical or lay: see Du Cange a capitulo] That is, from the service at which the martyrologium was read in the Chapter House, and which usually followed Prime. See Procter and Dewick's The Martiloge in Englysshe (H.B.S. vol. iii.) pp. v. xxxii-xxxv.; Maskell's Monumenta Ritualia, 2nd ed., 1882, vol. i. pp. clxx-clxxiv.; Todd's Obits and Martyrology of Christ Church (Irish Archæological Society) pp. lxxxviii-xcii. The implied use of this service, and indeed the mere mention of the 'capitulum,' seems to indicate a monastic or Cathedral church. If in the Church for the use of which our missal was intended the service in capitulo followed Prime, the Blessing of the Candles must have taken place at a somewhat unusual time. Most commonly (HRW) it was after Tierce, at Salisbury in earlier centuries after Tierce (Consuetudinary, ed. Frere, 1898, p. 131 sq.), at a later date after Sext (S) at Evesham, 'post vi<sup>am</sup> uel iii<sup>am</sup>.' But one of Martène's ordines (De Ant. Eccl. Rit. IV. xv. Ordo vi. t. iii. col. 134), directs that the candles are to be blessed after Prime. On the other hand the service in capitulo was occasionally held after Tierce (Procter and Dewick, p. xxxii.; Martène, De Mon. Rit. I. v. 2. (col. 52)).

ter] This is no doubt correct, as it is found in the Pontifical of Besançon: c has tunc.

1. 26. 'ueniendum] Before this word C and the Besançon MS. insert ante altare sancte marie] The practice here enjoined, of blessing he candles at the altar of St. Mary rather than at the high altar, seems to show that this service assumed the form which it has in our missal at a date considerably earlier than that of the manuscript in which it is preserved. It was in vogue about A.D. IIoo—the date according to Martène of the Pontifical mentioned in the preceding notes—at Besançon: and apparently also at Tours, for the Besançon Pontifical was 'ad usum ecclesiae Turonensis accommodatum' (Martène, De Ant. Eccl. Rit. t. i. Syllabus). It has place also in a service book of the Church of Châlons sur Saone, to which Martène assigns no date (ib. IV. xv. Ordo vii. t. iii. col. 135). Martène mentions it as an ancient custom of the Benedictines, De Ant. Monachorum Rit. (III. vii. 16, col. 300): 'In antiquioribus Ordinis nostri monasteriis in alio oratorio extra propriam ecclesiam, aut saltem in aliquo sacello, quo processionaliter pergebatur, cerei consecrabantur. . . . Einsidlenses, aliique Germanorum monachi, Cluniacenses, Corbeienses, Divionenses, uti et Tullenses S. Apri, in oratorio B. Mariae.' In England we have possibly an example of the same practice at the beginning of the eleventh century in J (see below, note on p. 50, l. 19), which is a Benedictine book: it certainly survived in the Benedictine monastery at Evesham as late as the beginning of the fourteenth century (H. A. Wilson, Officium Ecclesiasticum Abbatum secundum usum Eveshamensis Monasterii. Henry Bradshaw Society, vol. vi., p. xv., col. 57, p. 190 sq.). Mr. Wilson conjectures that it may have been introduced there towards the end of the twelfth century from Cluni.

1. 27. diacono C and the Besançon Pontifical read decano: and this must give the correct sense. But we cannot be certain that diacono is a scribe's error; for in the Terrier of Down and Connor (A.D. 1615) we find the entry, 'Ecclesia Parochialis of Ballee. The Prior of Down had it always, and he was Deacon, as the Bishop was Abbot.'1 Compare also the variation between the Customary and Consuetudinary of Sarum, Frere's edition (1898), p. 7.

'Tunc adspergantur aqua benedicta, et thure adoleantur et illuminentur et interim canatur a clero antiphona Hodie beata virgo Maria puerum Iesum. Post haec accipiunt omnes singulos cereos de manu pontificis vel editui et dicit sacerdos hanc orationem. O. s. d. qui unigenitum . . . Oratione hac expleta . . . clerus circuit ecclesiam et inchoat schola primam Antiphonam Ave gratia . . Alia. Adorna thalamum . . Alia. Responsum accepit.' l. 16. Alia ant.] We might perhaps rather have expected Ps., as in the majority of books in which Nunc dimittis occurs in this office. But the four Pontificals the text of which is given above are unanimous with regard to the title antiphona: and with them agrees the Book of Evesham (col. 60).

l. 18. Ante altare] This rubrical direction seems peculiar to E.

It appears to relate to the following anthem, which in most other books, as in Hittorp, is the first of the processional antiphons. The words ante altare are probably a warning, which would be needed by persons accustomed to the use of the office from which ours is revised, that Aue gratia was to be sung, not during the procession, but at the altar where the candles had been blessed, before the procession began.

Aue gratia, as just observed, is the first processional anthem in most books. Some give a more precise direction. Thus in  $\Lambda$  (the eleventh century portion) it is to be sung 'ad stationem sancte marie': in the Sydney Sussex MS. of Y 'in egressu de choro usque ad altare beatae mariae,' the antiphon Adorna thalamum following 'in statione ante altare beatae mariae.' This gives the reason for the substitution of Aue gratia for Puer iesus in E. The benediction took place, not as in the English Pontificals at the High Altar, but at the Lady Altar. If therefore this anthem was to be used in the customary way it must be said before, not after, the procession set out: ante altare, not ad processionem. It may be remarked that a similar transposition of Aue gratia takes place in J. It is not impossible that this missal also supposes the benediction to take place at the altar of Saint Mary.

l. 21. Read ulnas. l. 23. Read accipiant.

1. 24. editui] So in Hittorp's Ordo quoted above. In J (p. 159) the candles are distributed by the edituus. And similarly in the Bodleian MS. Rawl. c. 425 (W col. 624), 'distribuantur cerei per secretarium'; and in the Book of Evesham (col. 60), 'Secretarii uero distribuant singulis fratribus singulos cereos.' This was in fact the usual rule among the Benedictines: see Martène, De Ant. Mon. Rit. III. vii. 21 (col. 303).

l. 34. antiphonas] The abbreviation is unusual: anthās.

The words ad processionem are absent from the English Pontificals (except  $\beta$ ), from which circumstance we may infer that they are not to be connected with pertinentes. Though written by our scribe continuously with what precedes they were probably in his exemplar the heading of the antiphons which follow. Their absence from the Pontificals, in which the text of these antiphons is not given, is thus easily accounted for.

IN DIE S. PATRICII.

l. 6. The mass for St. Patrick's Day should have preceded the last. Possibly its misplacement may be accounted for by its being taken from a different source from the remainder of the missal. It is found, with one or two slight variations in the collect, in C. And the Missal of Kilcormic (Trinity College, Dublin, MS. B. 3. 1), which was written in 1458 for the Carmelite Priory of Kilcormic (now Frankford, in King's County), by Dermot O'Flanagan, a brother of the Priory of Loughrea, County Galway, gives a recension of it which may be printed here.

l. 10. scotorum] This was the name applied to the Irish, and to them alone, for many centuries. The cognate term 'Scotia' was first used of that portion of the modern Scotland which is bounded on the south by the rivers Forth and Clyde, early in the eleventh century, the word 'Scoti' having been applied to its inhabitants somewhat earlier (Skene, Celtic Scotland, i. 398). But long after that date the island now known as Ireland continued to be called indifferently 'Hibernia' and 'Scotia.' See the letter from Stephen White to Colgan, published in the Proceedings of the Royal Irish Academy, vol. viii. p. 34; Ussher, Works, vol. vi. p. 283 sq. An early use of Scotia applied to North Britain will be found above, p. xxii note I; and on the other hand an interesting example of the late period to which the name Scotland continued to be used for Ireland may be seen in the Martiloge of Richard Whytford, printed in 1526, where under Feb. 1 and Mar. 17 we have 'in Scotlonde the feest of saynt Brigide,' 'in scotlonde the feest of saynt Patrike bysshop and confessour that fyrst preched there Christes fayth' (Procter and Dewick's edition, H.B.S. vol. iii. pp. 19, 42).

l. 11. ut hibernenses . . . efficeret It is difficult to believe that we have this collect in its original form. It seems unlikely that the people to whom St. Patrick preached should be described in two successive clauses by the different names of 'Scoti' and 'Hibernenses gentes.' Moreover the words between elegisti and tribue are a mere amplification of scotorum apostolum. We may suspect that they are a later explanatory addition, made after the word 'Scoti' had come to be used for the inhabitants of North Britain as well as for those of Ireland: that is about the eleventh or twelfth century. Compare the words of a scribe employed by Marianus Scotus, penned (for the benefit of foreign readers) on June 28, 1072: 'Et scripsi hunc librum pro caritate tibi et Scotis omnibus id est Hibernensibus, quia sum ipse Hibernensis' (MacCarthy, The Codex Palatino-Vaticanus

No. 830. R. I. A. Todd Lecture Series, 1892, p. 15). Our suspicion is confirmed when we turn to the Breviary of Kilmoon (Trinity College, Dublin, MS. B. 1. 5), which, at f. 122 r a, has the following collect for St. Patrick's Day:

Deus qui beatum patricium hybernie apostolum tua prouidencia elegisti tribue nobis quesumus, eius intercessionibus ut ad ea quae recta sunt quam tocius festinemus per.

This omits, it will be seen, the suspected clause, and proclaims its comparatively late date only by the substitution of hybernie for scotorum. It is the link which connects the collect of our book in its original form with the more divergent recension in the Kilcormic missal printed above. Yet another example of the collect with the word scotorum and the explanatory insertion is given by Colgan (Trias Thaumaturga, p. 193) from an ancient Breviary of Armagh. It varies from our text as follows:

l. 9. sanctum] beatum.

l. 11. ad lumen . . . reduceret et om.
l. 12. lauacra. dei excelsi efficeres.
l. 13. piis om. ut post quesumus.

It may be added that the inserted clause recalls, though perhaps not very vividly, various phrases in Jocelin's Life of St. Patrick, and may with some likelihood be referred to him as its author. The contrast between the darkness of heathen error and the light of Christianity is very frequent. See e.g. §§ 51, 55, 62, 153; and note especially § 40 'Populus ergo gentium illarum qui sedebat in tenebris jam videns lumen magnum acclamando gratiarum actiones summae luci . . . Patriciumque praeconem perennis lucis magnificabat' : § 41 'ad discernendam lucem verae fidei a tenebris idololatriae': § 48 'Ipse vero S. Patricium sicut angelum pacis et lucis . . suscepit . . . credidit et per lauacrum regenerationis . . . christo incorporari meruit: § 63 'Ne, tali lucerna extincta, populus Hiberniae iterum in tenebris ambularet.' All these expressions are of course reminiscences of Isai. ix. 1, which usually served as the text of Irish homilies on St. Patrick. But similar phrases are found also in the Vita Kentegerni, where there is perhaps less opportunity for using them, and where they cannot have been due to any such obvious suggestion. Thus cap. i (I quote from Forbes' edition, Historians of Scotland, vol. v. p. 162) 'Quomodo candor lucis eterne, sol iustitie, . . . radiis sue cognitionis et dilectionis mundum illuminauerit . . . suos inducens in omnem plenitudinem ueritatis efficatius', &c. Cap. iv (p. 169) 'Lauacro regenerationis et renouationis illos perfudit.' Cap. 24 (p. 203) 'Sedenti namque in tenebris exterioribus uerus lucifer cordi illius illuxit; et lux exterior ad tempus adempta de tenebrosis, et umbra mortis, illum educens in lucem ueritatis induxit. Interius igitur illustratus . . . ut . . . fontem salutis ipsum ablueret, cepit deuote deprecari,' and the remainder of the chapter. See also chapters ix (p. 178), xxvii (p. 208), xxxii (p. 218),

> xxxiv (p. 219), xxxv (p. 222), xxxix (p. 229). Jocelin uses 'Scoti' for the inhabitants of modern Scotland. Thus, Vita Kent. cap. xxvii (p. 209), St. Kentigern preaches to the Picts and Scots, while a few pages later we are told (cap. xxix. p. 213) that Rederech was baptized by the disciples of St. Patrick 'in Hibernia.'

Another collect for St. Patrick's Day is found in two inedited Irish Breviaries, which stand side by side in the library of Trinity College, Dublin (B. 1. 3, 4), and which belonged respectively to the Church of Clondalkin and to that of St. John the Evangelist, Dublin. It runs thus: Deus qui beatum patricium hybernie apostolum signis multimodis decoratum ad celestem gloriam transtulisti presta quesumus ut eius meritis et precibus adiuti eterne beatitudinis premia consequamur per. This collect reappears in an office of St. Patrick printed at Paris in 1622 (Colgan, Trias Thaumaturga, p. 189), and, with two slight variations in the text, in another printed at Rheims in 1612 (ib. p. 196, recte 195). Besides these two main groups of collects for St. Patrick's Day we find three others having nothing in common with any of those here printed, or with each other, which Colgan (ib. p. 194 sqq.) reprinted from offices published respectively at Venice in 1522 (Roman Breviary), at Brussels in 1622, and at Rome in 1635.

Mr. Warren has aptly cited in illustration of the closing words of the secret the Irish notion of the function assigned to St. Patrick in the Day of Judgement. This traditional belief seems to assume two forms. According to one the saint was to be the judge of the Irish. Thus to the words of St. Sechnall's hymn, 'cum apostolis regnabit sanctus super Israel,' the glossator appends the note, "i regnabit Patricius super Scotos in die iudicii, quoting Matt. xix. 28, in which the apostles are described as sitting on thrones judging the tribes of Israel. So, according to Muirchu Maccu Mactheni's notes in the Book of Armagh, it was granted to St. Patrick 'ut Hibernenses omnes in die iudicii a te iudicentur,' language which is echoed by the homilists.4 The other form of the tradition makes Patrick the defender of the Irish on Doomsday. Thus the Prayer of Ninine:5

> We pray to Patrick, chief apostle, who hath saved us to Doom's day From judgement by the malevolence of dark demons-the gloss on which supplies a very close parallel to our secret: 'i.e. who will save us, i.e. who will effect our deliverance.' This probably gives the meaning of Fiacc's 'Around thee in the Day of the Judgement men of Ireland will go to Doom '6: and to this latter form of the belief about St. Patrick, rather than to the former, allusion appears to be made in the text. The Second Vision of Adamnan combines both

MISSA IN LETANIA MAIORE.

1. 22. From its position in the missal it appears that this mass was intended to be used on St. Mark's Day: and for this day it is appointed in PPZ. But, on the other hand, the majority of later books assign it to one or more of the Rogation Days. Thus in AHAMSWY it is the mass for Rogation Monday; in W, and in HY with a change of lessons, also for Rogation Tuesday. In the modern Roman missal the same mass serves for all three Rogation Days and for St. Mark's Day, while in R it comes between the mass for the 5th Sunday after Easter and that for the Vigil of Ascension with the heading In Letaniis maioribus.1 And with this usage the title in E agrees. It seems clear that in the exemplar it was a Rogation Day mass, and that it was transferred to its present place, without altering the title, in accordance with the principle expressed in the rubric in R: 'Officium misse de letaniis ante vigiliam ascensionis positum: fiat eo tempore quo fit in terris in quibus fratres morantur.' The converse transposition has been made in J, where it appears as the mass for the Monday before Ascension Day, but with the title vii. Kal. Mai. Laetania Maiore. Thus the position in the missal, rather than the title, in both E and J, indicates the usage. Compare above on p. 12, l. 1.

<sup>1</sup> Mr. Warren supposes that the nine excised leaves of C, intervening between the present f. 117 and f. 118, contained, inter alia, masses for the Rogation Days. Though this conjecture is probably correct, it cannot be regarded as certain; for, besides the nine here referred to, six leaves have been removed from the MS. by excision, and in each of these cases the excision took place at an early stage of the scribe's work and has left no lacuna. It is quite possible that this may be true also of some of the nine excised after f. 117. The following indication of the arrangement of the gatherings of c, which I owe to the kindness of Mr. Plummer, the Librarian of Corpus Christi College, Oxford, will supplement what Mr. Warren has written i (i. 1, probably blank, lost), ii, iii, iv<sup>12</sup>, v<sup>14</sup> (v. 3 and v. 11 excised) vi<sup>10</sup> (vi. 2 and vi. 8 excised), vii, viii, ix<sup>12</sup>, x<sup>14</sup> (x. 5 and x. 9 excised), xi (xi. 3-11 excised), xii, xiii, xii, xv, xv, [xvi], [xvii], [xviii]<sup>12</sup>, [xix]<sup>3</sup> (xix. 1 lost), [xx]<sup>8</sup>.

Possibly the final leaf of the manuscript has been lost. If so, it was probably the conjugate of xix. 1, and thus what we have called gatherings xix, xx are the remains of a single composite gathering of 12. The stitching of these two folds is modern.

VIGILIA ASSUMPTIONIS S. MARIAE.

l. 28. Apparently the scribe began to write the psalm, but, in error, after its opening word (or words) copied again the end of the office. He then commenced the psalm afresh, not perceiving his mistake. This appears to be the psalm given in almost all English books, if we may assume that Et gaudium in the Durham and Whitby missals

(w p. 1580) is a mere variant, following more closely the text of Sedulius, as we have Et gaudia in D p. 7. But S has Benedicta tu, Eructauit, and wadds a second psalm Quia concupiuit. C (see p. 60) agrees with E. Ia does not provide for this mass.

Probably this should be expanded r[equire] i[n] co[m] me[moratione] c[um] respo[nsorio]: the meaning being that the following lesson, of which the cue only is given here, and its responsory are to be found in the commemorative mass of the B.V.M., p. 79, 1. 35. So in C we have 'Ab initio et ante secula ut supra. Gradale ut supra,' the reference again being to the commemorative mass (C p. 60). And similarly in the Missal of Kilcormic (T.C.D. MS. B. 3. I), 'Ab initio et ante saecula et caetera sicut in commemoracione.' We have thus an indication that the Votive Masses originally preceded the Sanctorale. Compare above on p. 47, l. 38. 1. 7 sqq. This alternative lesson, with its grail, appears to be peculiar in this place to E. They are found, however, in W, and the lesson with a different grail in s, in the Common of One Virgin not Martyr.

IN TERTIA ET IN SEXTA FERIA.

I. 19. The title of this mass is in H Oratio generalis de omnibus sanctis, in S Oratio generalis, in C Missa communis, in W Alia missa generalis. I have not found it elswhere. H alone agrees with E in expressly connecting it with the commemoration of All Saints. Bishop Forbes (Arbuthnott Missal, p. xxxix) reads the title in E, In ni. et in ni. fe. This appears certainly incorrect, though the numerals are somewhat indistinct. The position of the mass, combined with its title, seems to indicate that it was used on the Tuesday and Friday after Nov. I: or the third and sixth feria may possibly mean Nov. 3 and 6. But whatever may be intended the expression is unusual. A parallel is found in the Annals of Ulster under the date 1263: 'Friar Patrick O'Sgannaik, Archbishop of Ard-macha, held a General Chapter in Drochet-atha this year feria secunda, tertia et quarta post festum omnium sanctorum.' On which Dr. MacCarthy remarks that the entry proves that in the year referred to Nov. I fell on a Sunday, and (this not having been the case in 1263) he emends the date accordingly. The title of our mass shows that the inference is precarious.

1. 16. It is somewhat surprising to find the Preface of the Holy Trinity, and it alone of the Prefaces, inserted after the Common Preface in the Ordinary of the Mass. The most obvious explanation of this fact is that this Preface was so frequently used that it was inserted here for greater convenience. But another (not inconsistent) hypothesis may be suggested, of which some confirmation will be found hereafter (see notes on p. 78, ll. 2 sqq., 23). We find in the 'Missa Canonica' of the Stowe missal ($\Sigma 233(206)) the following arrangement of prefaces. First there is the former part of the Common Preface. Then follows a clause which cannot as it stands in the printed editions be satisfactorily construed—'Qui cum unigenito' &c. It is clearly a somewhat divergent recension of the usual Trinity Preface. To this succeeds what may well be an Easter Preface—'Per quem salus,' which again can scarcely be connected with what immediately precedes it. It is, in fact, identical with the opening words of the preface of the mass for the dead in C (p. 74), D (p. 34). This seems to be given as a sort of specimen Proper Preface, and it is followed, after an obscure rubric, by the remainder of the Common Preface. It is at least possible that the corresponding portion of the exemplar of E, or of one of its ancestors, was arranged on a somewhat similar principle—that the Missa de Sancta Trinitate was in fact a sort of Missa Canonica, including the entire Ordinary and Canon, with the parts peculiar to the Trinity Mass inserted in their proper places. When the missal was rearranged, these portions of the service would of course be taken out and placed apart as a separate mass, while the preface would be removed to the part of the book assigned to the Proper Prefaces. We may suppose that the scribe (or editor) omitted to perform the latter portion of his task. And so the Trinity Preface remains in the Canon as a survival of the older arrangement of the book, just as the Preface de S. Maria is a witness to the fact that in the exemplar the Prefaces did not form a collection apart, but were distributed through the masses. above on p. 44, l. 18.

If the hypothesis that the mass de S. Trinitate was a missa canonica be not accepted, the presence of the Trinity Preface in the Canon appears to imply that in the Church to which our missal belonged it was in frequent if not weekly use. Such was the practice directed in the fourteenth century in the St. Alban's Missal (W p. 1504), and the writer of the Micrologus (cap. lx) speaks of the 'prefationem de Sancta Trinitate quam in diebus dominicis frequentamus.

But if it be held as probable that, as we have suggested, the Trinity mass was the setting, so to speak, of the Ordinary and Canon, the question may be asked: Why was it chosen for this purpose, rather than any of the other masses? One or other of two answers may be given. Either (1) this mass was in more constant use than the others; or (2) its position in the missal naturally led to its selection as the missa canonica. It was probably in the exemplar, as in our MS., the first in the series of Votive Masses; and, if we are right in our view that the Votive Masses originally preceded the Temporale (see above, p. xiii), it is not unlikely that it was actually the first mass in the book. If then the Canon was to be incorporated with any mass this is the one in which it would naturally be inserted. Both causes may perhaps have conspired to produce the connexion of the Canon with the Mass of the Holy Trinity. See further above in the Introduction, p. xviii. l. 20. differentia discretione] This reading can scarcely be defended, though it is supported by GJ (p. 241). The obvious emendation is differentiae discretione, which is read by  $\Gamma J(semel) \Lambda(semel) MY$ , seeing that the confusion of  $\alpha$  with  $\alpha e$  is very frequent in our manuscript. The corrector however (see footnote) appears to have thought that discretione was the word to be altered. On that supposition we should read differentia discretionis with ACDHA(semel)PRSWZ.

We should probably read meriti, with the bulk of MSS. But Σ has aestimatis meritis sed uenia, which may possibly be the reading intended here. It will be remembered that uenia might easily be written uenig by our scribe. The St. Amand Ordo agrees exactly with E (Duchesne, Origines du Culte Chrétien, 2nd ed. 1898, p. 449). În the Vatican MS. of G we have non stimamur † meritis, and in Cod. Vat. 4770 non estimamur + meritis (Ebner, Quellen und Forschungen, p. 424). And it may be noted that the final letters of estimator are in the St. Gall MS. of the Gelasian Sacramentary written over an erasure (G p. 239).

seems to confirm the conclusion already reached (above p. 168) that the mass for the Holy Trinity in E was a missa canonica, embodying the ordinary and canon.1 Our scribe has written this mass very carelessly (see below on l. 23), and may well be supposed to have forgotten to omit portions which, in the rearrangement of the book (see above, p. 168), ought to have been struck out. His error, if such it was, has preserved to us the only portion of an Anglo-Irish Ordinary now remaining, with the exception of In spiritu humilitatis, left in the Missa pro defunctis in D (p. 34). The form of Suscipe given here is longer than those of HSY, and differs much from them in other respects. The form, so far as I have noticed, which approaches most closely to ours is that given in  $\Lambda$  (p. 9). With this and with R it is collated below. Almost identical with  $\Lambda$  is the form given in Martène, DeEccl. Rit. I. iv. 12. t. i. col. 509, from an ordo edited by Flaccus Illyricus, which Martène believed to have been in use at Salzburg. 1. 6. The omission of the name of St. John Baptist is worthy of note. Le Brun says (Explication, Pt. iii. art. ix. note 41) that St. John is not named in the Micrologus, nor in any missal before the twelfth century. This statement cannot indeed be accepted without reserve (see Paciaudi, De Cultu S. Johannis Baptistae, Rome, 1755, p. 138): but the absence of the clause containing the name may indicate an early date for the text of E at this place.

1. 7. Read placuerunt. et] This word is, of course, superfluous. But in a very large number of instances a clause is introduced at this point, beginning with et, and apparently intended to adapt the general form for use on special occasions not otherwise provided for (see below in the collation). When the missal was revised and rearranged, this clause, if it were specially appropriate to the Trinity Mass, would quite naturally be marked for omission. It is not impossible that the scribe, by an oversight, allowed the first word to stand, while passing over the remainder.

This blunder of the scribe is readily accounted for, in the present instance, on the supposition that in the exemplar the Trinity Mass was a missa canonica. For in that case several pages, containing the Canon, would intervene between the secret and the common. See above on p. 73, l. 16; p. 78, 1. 2.

DE S. MARIA.

l. 24. in sabbato] So JP: compare Micrologus, cap. 60, and S col. 759\*, where five reasons are given why 'Sabbato celebratur de beata Virgine.' But  $\Gamma$  (col. 388) has feria tertia. In s the mass of the B.V.M. is said daily (col. 761\*).

ab octauis There are in E four masses de S. Maria, the period during which each is to be used being indicated in its title, viz.: (1) p. 79, l. 24 ab octavis; (2) p. 80, l. 35 in adventu dni.; (3) p. 81, 1. 14 de nativitate dni. usque ad purificationem; (4) p. 82, 1. 30 in resurrectione usque ascensionem ioct. Now (2) and (3) account for the interval between the beginning of Advent and Feb. 2. The meaning of (4) is not so clear: but it seems likely that ioct is an error for [et] i oct, i.e. et in octavis [eiusdem]; or for 7 [per] oct (see above on p. 11, l. 31), i.e. et per octauas [eiusdem]. If so this mass is intended for use from Easter to the Octave of Ascension. It seems clear that 'octave' most probably refers to the same festival in (1) as in (4). Thus (1) will mean 'from the Octave of Ascension (to Advent).' Our four masses therefore are for (1) Octave of Ascension to Advent; (2) Advent; (3) Christmas to Candlemas; and (4) Eastertide. Now if we turn to R we find the last three of these, the first with a slight variation to be noticed immediately, and a fifth which is obviously needed to complete the series, viz., from Candlemas to Easter. How are we to account for the absence of a mass for the last of these periods in E? Most probably by supposing that it was accidentally omitted by the scribe. This part of the missal is extremely confused in its arrangement, as we shall have to notice hereafter, and bears tokens of a bungling attempt to alter the order of the masses. Nothing is more likely than that in the process of changing the sequence a mass should be omitted. Or possibly (1) served for the earlier period as well as for that with which its title connects it. But, however this may be, it suffices to say that similar lacunae occur in other books, as, for example, Y. It remains to observe that the mass for the time preceding Advent is entitled in R 'a penthecoste usque ad aduentum,' not as here 'ab octavis [ascensionis].' The difference is trifling, affecting at the most only the mass for the Vigil of Pentecost. But indeed it is possible that E contemplates no mass of St. Mary on that day. In the case of the Missa de S. Cruce, which was said weekly, a long list of circumstances is given in S (col. 748*) which would entail its omission. And where the Mass of the B.V.M. was used only once a week, it is not improbable that it was similarly superseded on certain great days, of which Whitsun Eve might well be one. If there was no Missa de S. Maria on Whitsun Eve, the directions in R and E are equivalent.

The mass which corresponds to the present in its contents is variously headed. It is Missa de S. Maria without addition in ACTJAP, while in R the addition is given a penthecoste usque ad aduentum, in S a purificatione usque ad adventum dni., in W a festo purificationis usque ad pascha et a festo s. Trinitatis usque ad aduentum dni., in y a festo purificationis ad caput iciunii et a festo,

DE RESURRECTIONE.

1. 32. The scribe in error wrote here the title of the next mass. He subsequently altered it (see footnote) to De resurrectione usque ascensionem, which agrees with D, De resurrectione. D is the only other missal in which I have found this mass. It is evidently out of place here, intruded into the series of missae de S. Cruce and de S. Maria. Probably a rearrangement had been attempted of the Votive Masses, and the difference in order of the masses in E and its exemplar was the cause of the error in the rubrication. Bishop Forbes (Arbuthnott Missal, p. xxxix) omits the title of this mass.

1. 3. See footnote. I am unable to offer any satisfactory explanation of this line. The latter part should probably be expanded in resurrectione (usque) as(censionem). The fact that these words occur in the title of the next mass suggests that we have here a second fruitless attempt of the scribe to insert it in its proper place (see above on p. 81, l. 32). But the two first letters cannot represent de sancta cruce, and there were no letters before those which now remain legible.

DE S. CRUCE.

1. 15. Incorrectly read by Bishop Forbes (Arbuthnott Missal, p. xxxix) De S. Maria ad resurrectionem. This mass, like the last, appears to be misplaced. It would naturally have followed the Missa de S. Cruce on p. 78. The scribe may have thought it fitting that the three masses for the Easter season should be brought together. They are together also in D, but in a different order. The corresponding mass in most books is that for the Wednesday before Easter. In some the collects are also used in a missa de S. Cruce.

DE SANCTIS QUI IN ECCLESIA REQUIESCUNT.

l. 9. Read in ecclesia. This mass appears, with some variety in the text of the collects, in many missals. The wording of the title is not uniform, but it seems in almost all cases to imply either that the saint or saints commemorated were buried in the Church, or that relics of them were preserved there. The title of our mass is apparently almost decisive that the Church for which E was written claimed to be the actual place of burial of the saints mentioned in the collects. The wording of the collects themselves does not indeed support this conclusion, and the use of reliquie in l. 12, without the alternative corpora, may seem to tell against it. But A was certainly used in the resting place of St. Augustine (Rule's edition, p. xi sq.), and reliquiae is found in it without corpora in all the collects. And reliquiae seems to be frequently applied to the bodies of the three Irish Patrons. See, for example, the Office for their translation as quoted by Colgan, Trias, p. 618, and compare the Annals at A.D. 1293.

i. 12. patricii 'n'] I am not aware that any parallel can be cited for this form of expression, and it certainly needs explanation. I mention first two suggestions which have been made to me, and which seem worth recording. 1. That it is a corruption of patrocinium. This would be possible, with a careless scribe like ours, if the exemplar had patrociii : but patrocinium seems to be a reading entirely without support from other missals, and very improbable. 2. That it should be expanded patricii nostri. But (1) the scribe did not so understand it, for n with a point before as well as after it is nowhere used for nostri; and (2) though examples of Patricius noster in Irish literature may be forthcoming, it is not a phrase which might be expected to occur in a mass collect. I believe the most likely supposition to be the following: 3. That in the exemplar patricii did not occur in the text of the prayer, but was written in the margin opposite 'n'. The scribe transferred it to the text, but in doing so, instead of putting the word in place of 'n', wrote it before this letter. We have here in short a conflate reading—by no means the only one in our MS. This hypothesis is borne out by the fact that the collect reads better without the name than with it: in fact, omitting patricii, it is almost identical in text with CD. And it is further supported by the

The two foregoing notes appear to establish a probability that the Church to which our missal belonged claimed to be the burial-place of St. Patrick. But here an objection to this view must be considered. The title is inconsistent with the text of the prayers, the former implying the possession of the body of the saint, while the latter is quite appropriate if mere relics were preserved in the Church. Is it not possible, then, that the scribe simply copied the title without making the alteration in it which was required to adapt it to the collects over which it was placed? He has certainly been guilty of a similar blunder elsewhere (p. 55, l. 22). That he has been equally remiss here must be admitted to be a possibility: but it seems an improbable supposition, for the following reasons: (1) It involves the assumption that the scribe transcribed the title and the collects from different MSS. Otherwise the same incongruity between heading and prayers must have existed in his exemplar. Either in it, then, or in one of its ancestors, a definite title must have been substituted for one that was indefinite, without the corresponding changes being made in the prayers—a fact very difficult to account for in the case of a scribe less stupid than ours. (2) A more likely theory of the origin of the phenomena may easily be suggested. Let us suppose that the exemplar of E had a mass (as in C) headed De sanctis presentis ecclesie, with the words corpora uel reliquiae in all the collects. On its margin notes would be written, with the view of adapting the mass to the special circumstances of the church where St. Patrick was Thus opposite the title would appear qui in ecclesia requiescunt: while opposite the collect would be the name patricii, corpora uel being marked for deletion. These latter notes would of course be intended to apply to all the prayers, though actually written opposite the first only. It would be quite in keeping with all we know of the scribe of E to suppose that a bungling attempt to incorporate the marginalia with the text produced the mass as it now stands. By some such hypothesis we must account for the conflate title for the mass of January 1 (p. 7, l. 14; see note) and for the reading dignanter propitius, p. 22, l. 14.

l. 16. I have not found this mass elsewhere. But the collect occurs as an alia for the postcommon in Gerbert, Monumenta Veteris Liturgiae Alemannicae, Typis San-blasianis, 1777, I. p. 303, and as a collect in the Liber Sacramentorum of Grimoldus (P p. 449), in addition to the places mentioned below. The postcommon also occurs as a collect in Grimoldus (P p. 450). The mass here serves the same purpose as that which follows, and these two are the only pair of alternative masses in the book (unless we are to except p. 87, ll. 5, 16). The moist climate of Ireland suggests an explanation of the fact that there are two masses for fair weather. It is perhaps worthy of remark that there is no mass for rain in CD.

PRO EPISCOPO DEFUNCTO.

l. 27 sqq. The interchange of sacerdos, episcopus, pontifex and their cognates, in the different authorities in these two masses, is very remarkable. It is no doubt a survival of the ancient use of sacerdos as the equivalent of bishop. Thus in the present mass sacerdos would seem throughout to be a very early, if not the earliest reading, being changed to episcopus or pontifex when sacerdos became limited to the second order. The mass pro sacerdote defuncto appears to have been originally for a deceased bishop, and, in consequence of this change in the signification of the word sacerdos, to have been assigned in later books to priests. The reading episcopi in G at p. 95, l. 4, should be noticed in this connexion. See Bishop Dowden's monograph, Observations and conjectures on the Kirkmadrine Epitaphs, in the Proc. of the Soc. of Ant. of Scotland, vol. xxxii, p. 247 sqq.

l. 27. In GJAZ the heading is Pro defuncto sacerdote, in R Pro defunctis episcopis seu sacerdotibus. The title here supplied is in the singular, in accordance with the analogy afforded by the next mass.

The singular number is used in the collects in AGJLAMWY.

It seems most likely that this gathering was followed by another, now lost, which contained the remainder of the present mass, and probably other masses for the dead. But this cannot be regarded as quite certain: other masses have been left incomplete by the scribe. See p. 11, l. 35; p. 78, l. 23; p. 91, l. 10.
